Ditch is polluted

Extradition ruling may take a week

JACKSON, Miss. — Dunklin County, Mo., Prosecuting Attorney Charles H. Baker, assisted by a member of the Mississippi attorney general's office and four local attorneys, presented pathological and criminology experts as witnesses Thursday during a seven- hour and 20- minute extradition hearing seeking the return of Dr. Norman A. Garrison Jr. of Corinth to Missouri to face a charge of murdering his ex-wife in Kennett, Mo.

Gov. Bill Waller will receive a compilation of testimony, possibly next week, as he considers whether Garrison should be extradited to Missouri to face murder charges.

Dr. Garrison is being sought by Missouri authorities for the Sept. 8 murder of Lee Ann Garrison, from whom he was divorced in June. The physician has contended that he was in Mississippi at the time of the murder and has not been to Missouri since June.

The hearing was almost an hour late starting, then was dismissed an hour for lunch in mid-afternoon before ending at 6:40 p.m.

Defense attorneys John B. Farese Sr. and John B. Farese Jr. of Ashland, Miss., and John Hopkins of Corinth paraded nine eye- witnesses to the stand who traced Dr. Garrison's moves from early Sept. 7 to late Sept. 8, including two witnesses who claimed they had spent the night with the doctor at a boat dock on Pickwick Lake in Tishomingo County -- 200 miles and a three and a half hour drive from Kennett.

The closed hearing, which has been labeled a legal battle, had all the aspects of a trial, with the exception of a jury. It had been emphasized that the hearing would not deal with guilt or innocence, but an official on the governor's staff said there was no way a hearing could be conducted without both sides presenting evidence to substantiate their claims.

Attorneys representing the family of the murder victim sat in on the hearing with the Missouri delegation seeking extradition of Dr. Garrison.

The Missouri authorities have kept secret the autopsy report of Dr. Pin H. Pu of Kennett and Dr. Robert Ahlvin of Sikeston which reportedly estimates the time of death as being between 8 and 9 a.m. Sept. 8.

It was learned by Daily Standard reporters late last week that the authorities were unhappy with the autopsy's estimated time of death after the reporters had gotten it in a statement from Sheriff Raymond Scott, who said at the time, "I don't know why they won't release it ... it won't change!"

Missouri authorities, including Sheriff Scott, were quoted in the Jackson Clarion Ledger Daily News as saying, "They have conclusive evidence" in the form of the doctor's "bloody fingerprint", found on a portion of a chain link fence outside the home which he had formerly shared with the victim.

For a motive they cited the result of a bitter divorce case in which the victim received a large settlement, $1,000 a month child support and custody of the couple's three children. Dr. Garrison was also ordered by the court in Dunklin County court to pay $100,000 as partial settlement.

A member of Dr. Garrison's family told the Jackson newspaper that although his family does not have the money or influence of the Dr. Loys Wilson family, the Corinth doctor's family will "fight this thing until he is clear, even if it takes three or 15 years."

Sheriff Scott was quoted by the Memphis, Tenn., Commercial Appeal, in an article Thursday, as saying that "he became convinded that the murderer had been wounded in some way. At one point in the case, he said he wanted to talk to Dr. Garrison about three points.

"I knew him personally, and I hoped he didn't do it," the sheriff said. "What I wanted from him was a fingerprint, his blood type and an examination to see if he had suffered any kind of a wound.

"I was trying to prove him innocent until he refused to cooperate with me. At that point, I started trying to prove him guilty. What's more, I believe I have the evidence that is needed.

"Dr. Garrison was pretty popular around here," the sheriff said, "especially with some of the women, and they didn't want to believe that he had anything to do with it. Well, you ought to have seen them when I came up with the fingerprint in

Gamblers raided in Bloomfield

BLOOMFIELD - The State Department of Liquor Control and the Stoddard County sheriff's department conducted a gambling raid at Tucker's Motel and Restaurant at approximately 10 p.m., Tuesday a spokesman at the sheriff's office announced today.

According to a citizen who phoned The Daily Standard office today, "Several prominent citizens were apparently involved in a poker game."

No charges were filed, and no names were released.

"It was just a friendly game, the wives knew where they were, and no complaints had been made," the sheriff's spokesman said.

Richard Irvin, a Liquor Control Board agent who conducted the raid, could not be reached today for comment.

A report has been made to the district supervisor at Cape Girardeau, however, according to agent Jimmy Moore of Poplar Bluff.

He said the supervisor will call a hearing to determine if there was a violation. If a violation is found, the supervisor will then determine the length of license suspension or if the restaurant's liquor license should be revoked.

Steps taken to halt sewage

Pollution threat found

Fishermen concerned about a favorite spot on Wolf Hole Ditch at Highway 80 in New Madrid County brought a possible serious pollution problem to the attention of The Daily Standard and New Madrid County health and conservation authorities early this week.

A large drainage pipe near the Highway 80 bridge was seen pouring what appeared to be sewage waste into the ditch. Conservation officials confirmed the discharge and they and the New Madrid County Health Department referred the problem to the Missouri Clean Water Commission offices at Poplar Bluff.

Late Thursday afternoon, representatives from the commission inspected the site and contacted Earl Copeland, manager of Scotty's Union 76 Truck Stop, where the drainage originated. A spokesman for the commission told the Standard today that Copeland immediately took steps to call in a sewage treatment specialist to determine the source of the failure in the sewage

Presson resigns

EAST PRAIRIE — Councilman Wayne Presson submitted his resignation to the City Council Thursday night, listing his reasons for resigning as health and personal reasons.

Presson was elected in April for a three- year term. According to the city ordinance, it will not be necessary to hold a special election to fill the vacancy since the general election is less than six months away. However, a councilman can be appointed by the City Council to fill the vacancy.

The council approved the use of the Teen Town building on Washington Drive by the Retired Senior Volunteer Program for the establishment of a Thrift Shop. Mrs. Carey Johnson, director of RSVP, had requested the use of the building two days a week for the shop in order to raise funds for the program.

Miss Kay Schwartzmiller, a Vista worker, was also given permission to use the building two nights a week as a gathering place for teenagers. Further details are to be presented to the council at a later date.

A request for a package liquor license from Jim Owens, owner of Owens' Saveway Station on East Washington Drive, was tabled by the council. City Attorney Fielding Potashnick is to be determine if Owens will be in compliance with city ordinances.

In routine action, the collector's report for September, showing a total of $25,738 collected, was approved. Also approved was payment of expenditures totaling $8,184.23. The police judge report showed assessed fines of $1,121, with $972.50 of that amount collected and the difference served in jail or worked out on city streets.

Bond issue to go on Nov. 5 ballot

The City Council Thursday approved a $600,000 bond issue for a new municipal water plant and authorized the city to submit a bid for the purchase of the Sikeston facilities of Associated Natural Gas.

The council gave its approval of an ordinance authorizing the council to put the bond issue on the November general election ballot.

The proposed treatment plant will add 3.1 million gallons of water to the city's water supply by early 1976.

The bond issue will be repaid with a 12-cent increase per 1,000 gallons over the present water rates.

The city's present water treatment facilities have a capacity of 3.7 million gallons per day. The old water treatment plant is being renovated and will be ready as soon as the automatic control equipment arrives.

City Light and Water company officials say that without the new treatment plant, Sikeston would run short of water in a few years.

City residents were asked to cut back on water usage this summer when the city ran short of capacity.

The new plant will probably be located along Compress Road near the city steam plant.

The council authorized the city to bid on the Sikeston facilities of Associated Natural Gas as part of a pool bid by 22 Southeast Missouri communities seeking to purchase the gas company.

Arkansas - Missouri Power Co., owner of the gas company, has been ordered by the Securities and Exchange Commission to divest itself of Associated. Bids will be opened in Blytheville Nov. 4.

City Attorney Manuel Drumm said the size of the bid was not being made public to prevent competitors from discovering the size of the bid.

The amount of the bid was recommended by William A. Ford Associates, consulting enginneers from Kirkwood.

Charles Church, city manager, said the bid is low enough so the gas company would be operated at its present rate structure.

If the bids by the cities are the high bids, then voters will be asked to approve the purchase in a special election.

Drumm said the city owes the public a complete disclosure on the details of the bid, but the disclosure can not come until the bids are opened.

Sikeston must look closely at the prospect of owning another utility and must decided whether it really wants it, Drumm said. The council should closely question the board of municipal utilities.

If they can't sell you on it, Drumm told the council, then don't go through with it.

The council approved a resolution declaring its support of the United Way fund drive beginning Oct. 15. The drive is seeking to raise $46,000 this year.

Betty Hearnes is Woman of Year

CHARLESTON — Woman of the Year for 1974-75, named Thursday night at the Ninth Annual Business and Professional Women's Club, is Mrs. Betty Hearnes, wife of former Gov. Warren E. Hearnes.

The announcement was made by Mrs. E. R. Putnam Jr., chairman of the event which was held in the National Guard Armory.

Selected as B&PW's Honorary Woman of the Year was Mrs. Verna Knight, who was introduced by Mrs. Don Thompson, first vice president of the club.

Mrs. Hearnes and Mrs. Knight each received engraved silver trays and arm bouquets of yellow roses.

Featured speaker for the evening was Jack C. Taylor of Columbia, billed as "Mayor of Whoopup". The capacity crowd was receptive to Taylor's homespun humor, which touched on such subjects as marriage, education, age, smalltown life and current events.

Mrs. Hearnes was cited for her contributions to the field of music, and her civic and political activities. The mother of three daughters, her primary interests include her family and music, which she has taught in the public schools of Sikeston and Charleston. The family attends the First Baptist Church, where she has served as organist and choir director. Presently she is in charge of the graded choir in her church and has taught at the Baptist Camp at Wendamere. She has also been a member of the Charleston Community Singers and was a soloist in their performance of "The Messiah" in 1973.

Mrs. Hearnes has been honored with a lifetime membership in the Missouri State Teachers' Association; received the "Woman of the Year" award given by the American Association of University Women in 1966; and was named Outstanding Baptist Woman in 1966 by the Southern Baptist College in Walnut Ridge, Ark.

She has been honorary chairman of the Mothers' March; awarded the jewel pin by Beta Sigma Phi for 1966; serves on the board of the St. Louis Symphony; and is a member of the Missouri Historical Society.

Mrs. Hearnes effectively lobbied for the bill funding the Missouri State Council of the Arts, making Missouri the second state to have a funded council. She spoke at the National Council of Arts in Washington D. C.; was the keynote speaker for the 10-State Southern Theatre Conference and headed the Governor's Task Force on Hunger in 1969, the year she was named Woman of the Year by the St. Louis Globe Democrat for her oustanding work in public affairs.

She was named to the Council of the Friends of the Library at the University of Missouri in Columbia and was recipient of the Distinguished Woman of America Award in 1971, presented by Columbia College. She also received the honorary degree of Doctor of Humane Letters from Lindenwood College in 1971 and is an honorary alumni of Williams Woods College.

In 1972, she was elected to the Academy of Squires of the State of Missouri and personally brought the Charleston Urban Renewal plan to the attention of George Romney, director of Housing and Urban Development. She has been a member of the executive committee of the Missouri Baptist Convention and currently serves as chairman of the citizens' advisory committee of the Charleston City Planning Commission and is a member of the Charleston Bicentennial Committee.

Mrs. Knight, Honorary Woman of the Year, was classified as "Mrs. Southern Hospitality", mother of two sons and four grandsons. She has held all offices and chaired all committees in the Business and Professional Women's Club of Charleston and is corresponding secretary for the Junior Study Club of Charleston.

THE MONEY FOUNTAIN AND
THE POCKET PICKING MACHINE

There was once upon a time in the world a large and well- known Republic by the name of Acirema. It had been noted for its wealth and tremendous business activity. The rulers of this country became obsessed with the idea that they alone knew what the ordinary people should do and how they should spend their money. They continued to increase their hold and influence by the simple means of constantly increasing what was known as the tax burden upon the citizens of this Republic.

Their officials continuously were searching for added means of increasing the things the government was doing and at greater and greater cost. One day one of these officials throught while getting a drink of water, "Wouldn't it be wonderful if in place of squirting water, a fountain could be devised that spouted goldoras?" Goldora was the name of the money used in Acirema. The idea was quickly turned into reality by some of the mechanical geniuses they had. The difficulty now was to get enough goldoras to keep the reservoirs of the money fountains filled. Extra efforts were made by all tax collectors to get in more and more goldoras. But as more and more public officials were constantly visiting the money fountains, the demand was far greater than the collectors could corral.

At about this time one of the top department heads was showing a foreign visitor the sights. They did a little slumming, looking over Skid Row. While there they noticed one of the lighter- fingered gentry quickly lift the wallets of a few passersby. Then was born the idea as to how to solve the problem the Money Fountain had created.

While it was not moral and actually against the law to pick pockets by hand, by a certain line of reasoning that had become prevalent in Acirema, a machine, being simply a mechanical device without conscience or will of its own, there was nothing in the present laws to prevent it from doing what it was illegal for a human to do.

The engineers drew plans and very soon the New Era Pocket- Picking Machine, Model A, was in production. Its success was phenomenal. Every branch of government down to the smallest hamlet wanted both a money fountain and a pocket - picking machines soon became the country's leading industry.

This machine also reduced friction among government employees as the tax collectors were complaining that they had all the hard dirty work of gathering the goldoras while their compatriots were having a ball dispensing them in the "grande manner."

Now consternation was soon widespread throughout the land. The smart folks, those in the know, quickly called a meeting of their executive vice-presidents, accountants, and attorneys. After many hours in a huddle, they came up with the means to circumvent the pocket picker as it would only pick goldoras from a person's side pants pockets. By the simple means of transferring one's wallet to the hip or coat pockets, the machine could not get it. This left the ordinary people of Acirema as the only ones affected.

The reader may think that everyone would understand something so simple, although it required quite some huddling by the top brass to devise this scheme. Also as this country spent huge sums on education that all the people would be at least this smart.

There were many smart children in Acirema who became geniuses, but for the inept they had what was known euphoneously as "progressive education." They also had a pasttime known as "passing the buck" that was along similar lines. In progressive education the inept youngsters were simply passed from teacher to teacher until after 12 years they were given a piece of paper that stated they had progressed from kindergarten thru high school.

It might be hard to imagine how, after 12 years, some of these children had but little more knowledge than when they started kindergarten. But the way many things were done in Acirema, even the improbable was sometimes done quite easily.

The chief officials soon took note of the ways some of the citizens were shielding themselves against their machines. The engineers were called upon for an improved machine and designed Model B. This new equipment would also pick hip pockets, whereupon those in the know simply kept their wallets in their coat pockets. Now the engineers were again consulted and Model C was developed. This machine would pick all pockets of a person's clothing, even handbags to which some folks might have tried to transfer their wallets.

The clever ones had to develop added new ideas, and temporarily were able to outwit the machine by hiding their goldoras in safes, mattresses, cookie jars, behind Aunt Minnie's picture, filing cabinets, hollow wooden legs, etc. But then the scientists invented the infrared snooperscope. The smart- money boys finally had their ears pinned back and were brought to bay by big government thru its handmaiden the pock - picking machine. By adding one of these extra-sensitive gadgets, the super pocket picker was then able to pick goldoras wherever they might lurk.

There was no real fear among the wise folks and they could only think of how to get their goldoras to other lands. But it was too late because the officials had built a road block here. No longer was there any escape for one's goldoras.

Now you may wonder why with all the so-called smart people, with their executive vice- presidents, board of directors, consultants, public relation experts, accountants, and attorneys, they would let such a thing develop.

Well, the good citizens of Acirema were quite a group of joiners and had numerous societies. One of these was the "Order of the Turtle." Many of the prominent people in and out of government belonged to it. In order to be a member you had to agree beforehand never to stick out your neck. Whenever any subject of controversy or a project of big government came up, each member, when asked his views, simply emulated the turtle, hoping that the problem would evaporate or solve itself, or at least that his staff of experts could spare him from being troubled. This time the new science was greater than the old line and not until it was long past the time when it was possible to repair past errors did these folds awaken to the fact that the old tricks would no longer cover their previous short- sightness.

You may wonder what finally happened to the Republic of Acirema. Well, a law discovered by a man named Newton eventually came into action. While the reaction was quite violent and painful, things were eventually righted by the more virile. The good folks of this Republic again started a new cycle. The "Order of the Turtle" disappeared. A new type of education was developed and, while it is not recorded, it is surmised that study of past history was a required subject.

BOND IN '70
ENDORSED LEHR IN '74

In his 1970 campaign for State Auditor, Missouri Governor Christopher "Kit" Bond in effect endorsed Democrat George Lehr for the Auditor's job in 1974.

In those days, a Democrat was in the Governor's seat, and Mr. Bond, a Republican, made a campaign issue out of the desirability of the Auditor's being of the opposite political party.

How else, Mr. Bond asked, can the people be certain the auditor will be independent, free from the Governor's influence and control?

We have not heard much about that issue from Governor Bond this year. No doubt the Republican Governor does not want a Democrat Auditor as a watchdog on his Administration.

The more we think about it, however, there is a lot of merit to Mr. Bond's 1970 position.

How can John Ashcroft, the Republican Auditor, pretend to be fair and independent when auditing the accounts of his campaign manager, Attorney General John Danforth? How can he be fair and independent when auditing the accounts of the man who appointed him to office, Governor Bond?

George Lehr is a certified public accountant — certainly better qualified to be state auditor than the lawyer and college teacher, John Ashcroft.

He is also a Democrat, and, using Kit Bond's logic, that in itself makes him the best choice for the job of Auditor in a Republican administration.

Missouri needs an independent auditor. We hope the voters will choose George Lehr on November 5.

KICKING A MAN
WHEN HE'S DOWN

Workmen's compensation, the original "no fault" insurance, is an idea whose time came many years ago — but still hasn't fully arrived. A lot depends on what state you're in.

In Ohio, a law that just went into effect requires homeowners to pay into the state's workmen's compensation fund if they employ the services of someone -a maid, babysitter, gardner, etc. -to the extent of $50 or more over a three -month period.

Thought the new law relieves homeowners of the prospect of being sued if an employe is injured while working on their property, there hasn't been so much grumbling since the government told housewives they had to make Social Security contributions on behalf of their domestic help and to maintain the requisite paper work.

But in this repect, as Ohio goes, so may go the nation eventually. The newly protected workers in that state are among the 15 per cent of all American workers not covered by any workmen's compensation plan to whom President Nixon referred recently when he ordered the creation of a federal task force to find ways of improving state programs.

Charging that present systems "have not kept pace with the times," he pointed to four areas in which the task force would seek to assist states:

The extension of coverage to all workers; improvement of coverage for occupational diseases and development of less stringent requirements of proof from workers; elimination of "unreasonable limits" on medical and rehabilitation spending, and correction of local legal or technical limitations that bar many workeres from eligibility.

Even when workers are insured, they sometimes have to battle to claim benefits, and when they do collect often find that benefits are not enough to enable a disabled person to live decently.

While the President ruled out federal legislative action until states have had a chance to meet certain minimum objectives, at least one bill already in Congress is aimed at federalizing workmen's compensation by establishing national standards.

Critics of the Javits -Williams bill, however, claim that it may be well - intentioned but it fails to make allowances for the differing cost of living in various regions of the country. The bill is strongly opposed by insurance companies and politicians in California, for example, who believe that state's existing system is better than anything Washington might hand down.

With the most flexible system in the country, California's rate structure changes automatically every year to keep pace with wage and cost of living increases -in a word, inflation.

"Corporations owe it to workmen to insure that they are fully protected, if disabled, and are not reduced to second -class status because their compensation package is based on old dollars," says E.R. DeRosa, president of Mission Equities Corp. the leading California company spcializing in workmen's compensaiton.

They do, but unfortunately many don't, and won't without a great deal of leadership and prodding from the federal government.

P.S.C. COUNSEL
NAMED

Jefferson City — Leland B. Curtis, a 31- year - old St. Louis area native, was named Thursday as the new counsel for the Missouri Public Service Commission.

Curtis, who has been general counsel for the state department of revenue about two years, will replace Michael Pfaff, who is resigning.

When Curtis assumes his new role Nov. 1, he will be the third person to serve as P.S.C. council this year. Harry Wiggins of Kansas City held the position until May 15, when he resigned to run for the state Senate seat held by Lem T. Jones, Jr. (R-Kansas City).

Pfaff succeeded Wiggins but announced only three months later that he too would leave the post.

As P.S.C. counsel, Curtis may be representing the commission a suit brought by The Kansas City Star Company against the commission for alleged violations of the state open- meeting law.

Curtis said last night he will attempt to maintain the "high professional standards" that the commission staff has had through the years.

He said he could not comment on the open- meeting law suit.

Curtis is a former assistant attorney general and is the son of Thomas B. Curtis, republican candidate for the U. S. Senate.

As P.S.C. counsel, Curtis will represent the commission in hearings on proposed utility rate increases and in court cases.

Before July 1, the P.S.C. councel also had the responsibility of representing the public in utility rate hearings.

Since then, that duty has been assumed by the new state office of public counsel, which was created under the state reorganization law.

William Barwick, a former U. S. Office of Economic Opportunity official in Kansas City, has assumed that role.

THE PROBLEM OF CUBA

The estrangement of two peoples who traditionally are friendly is an unwholesome proposition and yet that has been the situation in which Cubans and U.S. citizens have found themselves for more than a decade. This situation came about when the government of the United States finally recognized Fidel Castro for what he really is -- a died- in-the- wool communist whose goal was the undermining of all democratic regimes in this hemisphere and the accommodating of Russian missiles aimed at the U.S. heartland.

Administration spokesmen in Washington say that resumption of diplomatic relations with Havana are not about to occur but the visit of two U.S. Senators sound ominous. It is to be hoped that the umbrella of detente is not about to be extended over the Castro dictatorship. Such a move on Washington's part could have disastrous effects on our relations with other South American and Central American nations. Our friends to the south have resisted for the most part the subversion attempts of Castro.

Some day, the sun will shine again on relations between the U.S. and Cuba. The tyranny of Castro will not last forever. The dictatorship in Havana eventually will decay. The Cubans are a freedom- loving people and they long ago realized that the rule of Castro did not bring agrarian reform but terror instead.

Recognition of Castro now would be an affront on our part to the freedom fighters who gave their lives at the Bay of Pigs in an ill-fatted attempt to save the national soul of Cuba. HLH

'Dirty Scum'? Is Poland's Party Chief Here For His Struggling People -- Or the Soviets?

NEW YORK — Now comes Poland's Communist one- man government, big, husky, tough-talking Edward Gierek with open hands, empty pockets and a heart full of hatred for the Jews.

The record reveals he gained power inside the Polish United Workers' Party Politburo by manipulating the grimly blatant anti- Semitic bloc in the party with the help of First Secretary Leonid Brezhnev of the CP-U.S.S.R.

It was Gierek's anti- Semitic expertise during meetings in Warsaw's big party building (not a half hour's stroll from the remains of the ghetto wall) that gave Gierek the political karate technique with which to destroy imcumbent party chief Wladyslaw Gomulka between 1967 and 1970. Gomulka's wife is Jewish.

The record is as clear as the headwaters of Warsaw's river Vistula. On March 14, 1968, Edward Gierek denounced the Jewish people. His speech, which differed a little from some of Hitler's propaganda mouthpiece Joseph Goebbels, attacked Israel.

"Zionists," said Gierek, "are dirty scum."

He did not reflect sentiment inside Polland. He did not, nor does he today, reflect the Polish people's attitude. I spent much time in Warsaw not too long ago.

Gierek's speech soon enough helped him succeed Gomulka,, an aging man who now can be seen wandering alone in Warsaw's parks. Gierek's word unleashed such anti- Semitism in official party ranks, in that tragic city burned to ashes by Nazi legions, that 15,000 Jews were forced to flee in 1967-69. Mostly they were scholares, teachers, economists, white-collar officials. Thus, today, only 10,000 of Poland's three million prewar Jews still exist -- and I use the word advisedly -- in that struggling land.

Certainly it is anyone's privilege to criticize Israel, the Zionists and the Jewish people. But why "dirty scum"? Why pick up where Nazi harangues left off?

One must use the word sinister here. Party leader Gierek is no provincial. He is in fact a Westerner. He went into the northern French coal pits when he was 13 years old. Later he lived in northern Belgium for 11 years, between the ages of 24 to 35. He is multilingual. He reads Western dailies -- especially the French press. He has a degree from Krakow School of Mining and Metallurgy (Poland) in mining engineering.

Therefore, his is not a fundamentalist approach. He is a realist. He is anti- Semitic for what he deems pragmatic reasons. Meaning that his patron is the equally anti- Semitic Brezhnev.

Let's then be realistic. By his words, let Comrade Gierek be known. He's a shrewd "Stalinist." What does he seek here? If he actually seeks grains, food, and succor for the Polish people, they should have it. I have observed them queue up for the most meager items, shoddy all of it. They queue for meats, vegetables and bread in Warsaw for hours only to find it all gone when they reach the counters.

In Poland recently, Gierek talked like the strong head of state. He said he was flying to America to hear what we had to offer. He knows what we have -- long extended credits at 6 and 7 per cent which our people can't get to build a home or invest in some small business. He wants heavy machinery, expertise and technology.

He wants tourism so he can get hard currency. He wants American corporations to co-produce inside Poland. He wants to increase U.S.- Polish trade from some $700 million annually to over a billion.

That's a grand design -- if it helps the Polish people lighten their burdens, weigh down their dinner tables, increase their wages and raise their living conditions. I know. I heard the people.

Further, there aren't many Poles who wouldn't take less bread for more freedom. Fly to Poland. Stroll Warsaw's streets. See and hear for yourselves. You'll soon learn how much they hate the Communist party and its fake parliament called the Sejm.

Is Gierek really here for his people? He's been a disciplined "Stalinist" for over 40 years. He runs what there is of an industrial plant -- especially in Silesia -- through his tightly controlled Ministry of Machinery. Be assured this is dovetailed into the Soviets' (Brezhnev's doctrine of Soviet hegemony) production charts.

There are many good men in the Polish governmental hierarchy. There are good businessmen in their commerce and industrial ministries and organizations. Some are kind, gentle -- and oh, so wistful. But it's big Gierek, politically sired by Brezhnev, once a whip in the French and Belgium Communist parties, one of the Stalinists who originated the sitdown strike technique (later used here by Walter Reuther in Detroit's auto plants) who is the party boss.

That is the truth about Comrade Gierek. Ask knowledgeable French and Belgium specialists. Anyone who can use the words "dirty scum" should give Henry Kissinger, President Ford and American industrialists some mighty ironbound guarantees on the use of our credits, our machinery and our expertise.

Let it be known that detente doesn't mean a cold peace.

Washington-Merry-Go-Round

JACK ANDERSON SAYS:
Kissinger and Southern Africa

WASHINGTON — From classified documents and dozens of interviews, we have now learned that Henry Kissinger guided President Nixon in January, 1970, along a tightrope between black and white Africa, with a secret tilt toward the white supremacist nations.

It was Kissinger's first big "tilt."

The Kissinger proposals were submitted to the former President as part of a massive review of U.S. policy toward southern Africa, our sources say. Prepared by Kissingeer's National Security Council staff and stamped SECRET on every page, the review is known formally as "National Security Study Memorandum 39." Its existence has been previously reported, but we have obtained a copy.

NSSM 39 offered five "options" for dealing with the explosive black- white confrontation in southern Africa. Supposedly, it was left to Nixon to choose the final policy. To this day, only a handful of Kissinger's closest associates know that he personally recommended the course he thought should be pursued.

Without exception, Nixon accepted Kissinger's recommendations. Here's what Kissinger proposed and Nixon adopted:

-- As a "general posture," Kissinger called for a "balancing" act in southern Africa; he wanted to "straddle" the black-white issue. With an emphasis on keeping it "quiet," he urged a "partial relaxation" of the chill toward the white regimes and an accompanying "modest" increase of aid to the black states. His objective, inside sources told my associate Joe Spear, was to persuade the blacks that the United States sympathized with them while fostering a secret kinship with the whites.

-- Kissinger advocated a slight relaxation of the stern U.S. posture toward white-ruled Rhodesia, an outlaw nation cut off diplomatically from the rest of the world. United Nations sanctions against Rhodesia were penalizing American firms, Kissinger contended, because other nations ignored them. He suggested, therefore, that the United States should prepare plans to "loosen" enforcement of economic sanctions.

-- Kissinger also wanted the United States to retain its consular office in Salisbury, Rhodesia. This was opposed by William Rogers, then Secretary of State, who argued strenuously that the office should be closed. But Kissinger'ss wishes prevailed until the British, who had accredited the consulate, demanded that it be shut down.

-- The United States should not take sides, Kissinger suggested, in the Portuguese colonial wars. But he urged a "quiet loosening" of the American arms embargo against Portugal's African colonies. The new policy, Kissinger advised Nixon, should permit the shipment to the Portuguese of "nonlethal" equipment with "dual" civilian and military use.

-- Kissinger also recommended that the arms embargo against South Africa should be "relaxed" to permit the sale of nonlethal equipment "intended" for civilian use. The United State should also increase "military contacts" with South Africa, Kissingerr advised, as long as it could be done "inconspicuously."

-- The delicate question of South Africa's control over South West Africa, with its overwhelming black population, should be avoided if at all possible, Kissinger pleaded. It should not be permitted, he argued, to become an issue in Washington's "bilateral relations" with South Africa.

-- As a sop to the black nations of southern Africa, Kissinger proposed a modest increase in foreign aid of about $5 million.

-- Trade between the United States and the white regimes should be encouraged, Kissinger advocated. But he stressed again that it shoud be done quietly. The services of the Export- Import Bank, he added, should be extended to South Africa and the Portuguese colonies.

Kissinger's recommendations were based largely upon "Option 2" in the NSSM 39 policy review. As spelled out in the secret document, this option called for "broader association with both black and white states" on the "premise" that "the whites are here to stay and the only way that constructive change can come about is through them."

Under Option 2, the United States would "maintain public opposition to racial repression but relax political isolation and economic restrictions on the white states." Among the "operational examples" listed under Option 2 are these:

-- "Enforce arms embargo against South Africa but with liberal treatment of equipment which could serve either military or civilian purposes."

-- "Remove constraints on EXIM Bank facilities for South Africa; actively encourage U.S. exports and facilitate U.S. investments."

-- "Conduct selected exchange programs with South Africa in all categories, including military."

-- "On Rhodesia, retain consulate; gradually relax sanctions (e.g. hardship exemptions for chrome) and consider eventual recognition."

-- "Establish flexible aid programs in the black states of the region; respond to reasonable requests for purchase of nonsophisticated arms."

This was the course that Kissinger chose and that Nixon followed.

Wyatt woman honored at supper

WYATT--- Mrs. Robert H. Byrne was honored with a birthday supper Sept. 29 hosted by Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Byrne, 1314 East Cypress, Charleston.

Those present for the occasion were Mr. and Mrs. Robert H. Byrne, Mr. and Mrs. Bobbie Byrne, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Byrne all of Wyatt, and Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Byrne, Jeffry and Jenita of Charleston.

At Wits End By Erma Bombeck

It's just my own personal observation, but I don't think God ever meant for men to do his banking, order food, or mail a letter from the driver's seat of the car.

If He had drive-ins in mind, He would have made our arms seven feet long and put curb feelers on our hips.

I have noted only two cars that have swung precariously up to the position where they can comfortably do business. One was a car from demolition derby and the other was a rental. Neither had anything to lose.

Drive-in banks intimidate me the most, possibly because I am "on camera" and quite self- conscious about having the tellers gather and exclaim, "Watch this one, Dorothy, she's the one who fell apart when her fender was ripped off last week."

Consequently, I have become something of a conservative. I pull a good six feet from the window and when the drawer slides out, I find that by opening my car door and forcing my head through my shoulder seat belt, pushing on the brake pedal with my right foot and bending my knee against the gear shift for leverage, I can slide my deposit slip into the drawer providing (a) I discontinue breathing for awhile, and (b) there are no high winds to circulate my deposit in the parking lot.

The mailboxes are something else. I never pull up to one of them that I don't visualize a meeting of the postal department in Washington figuring out how to position the boxes.

"No, no, Chester," says the designer, "You have placed the boxes on the driver's side of the car. We mustn't pamper them. Put them on the passenger side so the driver will have to put the car in park, straddle the stick shift in the console, cup his throat over the window and just try to sail the letter into this six- inch slot."

"Then the slot should be just above the pick-up times that have become blurred and unreadable?" asked Chester.

"Higher, Chester, much higher," smiled his boss.

Yelling an order for five into a clown's mouth is something else again. Especially when you are alone. I feel like such a fool shouting until the varicose veins in my neck surface.

Ann Landers

May-December marriage extolled

Dear Ann Landers: "Seen It Happen" has seen only what she wants to see. Just because she knowns of a May-December marriage that didn't work out (probably some dizzy golddigger married to a rich old goat) doesn't mean none are successful.

I am a 24-year-old woman who is deeply in love with a man twice my age. We have a beautiful relationship. The age difference complements and enriches both our lives. He appreciates my youth and I am greatful for his wisdom. I've never been happier or more content.

I have had relationships with "boys" my own age and they were full of deceit, self-centeredness and very little personal growth. From my point of view, THAT was prostitution. I was tolerating a lot of boredom and nonsense for what I could get out of it, mainly, a chance to go out and see and be seen, rather than stay home.

I suggest "Seen It Happen" either open her syes or keep her jealous mouth shut because she hasn't seen it all. -- An Exception

Dear Exception: I received an unexpected avalanche of letters from women who expressed the same point of view. Yours was the best. Thanks for writing.

Dear Ann Landers: I am 24 years of age, attractive (according to my friends) and although I had my leg amputated two years ago I feel normal and am happier than most two-legged girls I know. I view my "handicap" as a challenge and have never let it get me down. Since my leg is off at the hip I've found it much easier to use crutches than an artificial limb.

The problem is my mother. I love pant suits, short skirts and the current styles for women my age. My mother keeps nagging me to wear longer skirts, she hates pants, and insists I should dress so people will look at the upper part of me.

When I told her I was buying a bathing suit she said, "I don't see how you have the nerve."

Please, Ann, I need some advice. --Terry Who Is Hoping You're With Me

Dear Terry: I am. All the way. A 24-year-old women is old enough to select her wardrobe without "help" from her mother. I hope you will tell her so.

Your attitude is super. You've done a remarkable job of adjusting to a handicap that would throw most young women for a loop. I am filled with admiration.

Dear An Landers: About ten years ago my mother and her brother had a bitter argument and stopped seeing each other. I know my mother missed him a great deal. I suspect he missed her, too, because once they were very close.

Recently my mother became seriously ill. The doctors say she can't live much longer. When her brother found out how sick she was, he and his wife came to see her immediately. They brought flowers and gifts. Now they are friendly again.

How sad when relatives have fights and stop speaking to each other. The years go by--years when they could be having good times together sharing happy experience. When tragedy strikes everybody wishes they had behaved differently.

Please tell your readers not to wait until death is at the door before they forgive and forget, because-- Life Is Too Short

Dear Life: I wonder how many people who read your letter saw themselves. If they did, I hope they will take your advice. Thank you for sitting in my chiar today.

SHS wins close game

The Sikeston High School girls tennis team won a close game Thursday night by a 6-5 margin over the visiting Kennett girls.

The Sikeston team virtually sewed up the victory during singles competition by winning five of the eight individual matches. The SHS girls added the decisive point by winning one of three doubles matches.

The most exciting match of the afternoon came in doubles competition where Sikeston's Jeannie Vines and Melissa Lea lost a 5-1 tie-breaker to Kennett's Tenna and Cindy Richardson after battling to an 8-8 standoff. SHS coach Berta Schuerenberg noted that the Kennett girls are identical twins and "really play strong tennis. They are by far the strongest doubles team we've seen."

Two SHS girls, Mary Sikes and Susan Drumm, still have a perfect record in singles play. Miss Sikes is one of two seniors on the team, while Miss Drumm is a freshman.

Lynn Bizzell, another freshman, lost her first match of the season Thursday night.

Jeannie Vines, the No. 1 SHS singles player, won her match handily by an 8-5 margin over Jan Hodges. Gail Strickland, the No. 4 player and a freshman, also easily won her match, 8-2. Nancy Bohannon was another easy winner during singles combat, 8-5.

Individual scores, with Sikeston girls listed first, included:

Jeannie Vines defeated Jan Hodges, 8-5; Marilyn Neel lost to Karen Moore, 8-4; Lynn Bizzell lost to Teena Richardson, 8-6; Gail Strickland defeated Cindy Richardson, 8-2; Cindy Davis lost a tie-breaker to Tammy Bowman, 5-4; Mary Sikes defeated Christy Billington, 8-3; Susan Drumm beat Sandy Crawford, 8-0; and Nancy Bohannon defeated Cindy Simer, 8-5.

In addition to the Vines-Lea loss to Kennett's Richardson duo, doubles scores included: Gail Strickland and Linda Green lost to Karen Moore and Jan Hodges, 8-2, and Melissa Eaves and Dana Livington defeated Sandy Crawford and Christy Billington in a 5-1 tie-breaker.

Next Wednesday the SHS team will travel to Poplar Bluff for play beginning at 4 p.m.

Beth Hambrick low scorer in SHS girls golf matches

Beth Hambrick was low scorer for the Sikeston High School girls golf team in two matches this week. The SHS girls lost Tuesday at Malden, but returned home Thursday afternoon to defeat Kennett.

Sikeston toured the Malden course in 251 strokes and lost by 10 strokes to the Malden girls, who posted a 241 total. However, the SHS girls turned the tables Thursday and beat Kennett by eight shots, 240-248. The matches brought the SHS record to 2-1 going into the next outing which is set at 4 p.m. Tuesday at the Sikeston Country Club against the Malden team.

Miss Hambrick turned in the low score in both matches this week, posting a 50 Thursday and touring Tuesday's nine-hole round in 57 strokes.

Other individual scores for Sikeston girls in Thursday's match included: Lynn Lacefield, 59; Tanya Hesselrode, 65; Darla Jackson, 66; and Tammy Houchins, 74. Scores for Kennett girls were: Linda Brigance, 58; Rosy Fender, 62; Regina Beck and Christi Southern, 64; and Melanie Clevenger, 69.

Tuesday's individual scores at Malden were: Miss Hambrick, 57; Lynn Lacefield and Darla Jackson, 64; Tanya Hesselrode, 66; and Tammy Houchins, 80. Malden scores were Dana Park, 58; Patricia Morehead, 59; Judy Kilmer, 60; Melissa Threlkald, 64; and Vicki Black, 84.

SHS falls to Richland

Volleyball teams defeated

The Sikeston High School girls volleyball teams were defeated by the Richland Rebels Thursday night at the Sikeston Field House.

The A-team lost by identical 15-5 scores in two straight games. Sikeston won the second game of the B-team match, 15-13, but Richland came back to take the match by adding a 15-7 third game decision to a 15-9 victory in the opening game.

Mary Lowney proved to be the key server in the second game of the B-match, bringing the SHS team from behind to pull out the two-point victory.

"After playing these Stoddard County Conference teams, the girls are beginning to see how valuable teamwork is in the game," the SHS coach stated.

The next encounter for the Sikeston teams is scheduled at 6:30 p.m. Tuesday in the SHS Field House against Notre Dame High School of Cape Girardeau. In a previous meeting with Notre Dame this season, the SHS B-team won, while the A-team lost a close match.

State small college football schedule

By The Associated Press

Southwest Missouri holds it homecoming celebration Saturday and hopes invading Central Missouri doesn't spoil it as the Missouri Intercollegiate Athletic Association opens its conference campaign.

The invading Mules are 2-2 this season and Southwest is 31.

Southeast Missouri, 2-2, opens defense of its conference championship at Missouri Rolla, also 2-2. Jim Lohr, Southeast's new coach, has had to rebuild considerably this year after the Indians lost 13 lettermen from the 1973 title team.

The other conference game sends Northwest Missouri, 3-1, to Lincoln, 2-2, at night. Northeast Missouri, 2-2, goes to Wayne State in Michigan for its final tuneup test.

Three league games are scheduled in the Heart of America Conference. Unbeaten Missouri Valley, tied 14-14 by Tarkio in last week's league opener, invades Ottawa, a 35-24 loser in its first conference game against Central Methodist. Valley's deadlock with Tarkio was a bitter pill since the Vikings had thrashed the Owls a year ago 63-0.

Tarkio turns its attention, also in a night tilt, to William Jewell at Liberty, Mo. Jewell will be making its first appearance of the season after carving a 2-2 mark against outsiders.

Baker visits Central Methodist in the afternoon. Baker's inaugural resulted in a 28-16 loss to Graceland of Iowa. Graceland is idle.

Washington University continues its bid for an unbeaten season at Wabash in Indiana. The Battling Bears of St. Louis are 4-0 and went on a coring spree last week in a 51-15 victory over Centre.

The other Missouri independent teams also will be busy. Culver-Stockton, 3-1, has an afternoon contest at Illinois College. Missouri Western will be seeking its first victory in six starts at home against Iowa Wesleyan Saturday night. Missouri Southern, 1-2, goes to Arkansas Tech, also at night.

Kennett game is big one

Momentum is a big thing in an emotional sports like football, and tonight the winless Sikeston Bulldogs take their act on the road to try to re- establish some of that momentum they held in two narrow losses to physically large teams in the season's first couple of contests against Farmington and Bishop- Lillis. It has been a whole year, and nine games, since the red- clad Bulldogs last claimed victory. And, that was a narrow 14-6 count over the Kennett Indians last season. Tonight the Bulldogs face Kennett again, only this time the two teams will be playing at Kennett and some of the Indians boys appear to have grown while the Sikeston boys have failed to.

The Indians will be the second- largest team the Bulldogs have faced all year when they take to the gridiron in tonight's 7:30 conference clash. Although not quite as fast as earlier SHS opponents, the Indians have an offensive line that averages nearly 195 pounds per man -- or about 35 pounds per man larger than Sikeston. Veterans are also the rule for the Indians with nine lettermen returning on offense. Not numbered among the veterans is the Kennett offensive leader, quarterback Robert Roundtree.

The Sikeston team has been hurt badly by mistakes and injuries this year. They have turned the ball over 18 times in the first four games, yet have been saved some embarrassment by a tough defense which hadn't cracked until they were ripped 32-7 by the Charleston Blue Jays. With two weeks passing since their last outing the Bulldogs have had a chance for some of their walking injured to heal, and hopefully will be in good physical shape for the game,

The contest is a big one for the Bulldogs. They stand 0-4, and games against two of the district's top teams, Cape and Poplar Bluff, are included in their last four after tonight. So, tonight's contest is a big one -- one in which Sikeston must establish some momentum and confidence. The Kennett Indians aren't going to cooperate any, so the game should be a very interesting one.

CINCINNATI (AP) — Horst Muhlmann, the Cincinnati Bengals West German placekicker, had his own idea on what it meant to beat the Washington Redskins 28-17 last Sunday.

Prediction percentages poor

The Daily Standard Prognostication panel enters its fifth week and is having very little success predicting the outcome of the weekend football games.

Our predictions didn't make the paper last week due to difficulties not our own but none of our panel faired too well anyway, particularly yours truly. Danny Denton failed completely in his first attempt. Danny picked Dexter over Hayti. The outcome was close but we go by who win or loses not by how close the score is.

The Charleston and I-SC losses really caused the percentages to go down last week. Two members came up with 4-4 picks and two others picked only one of eight right.

Maybe the guessing will get easier as the weeks pass by.

Cape Central at Jackson -- The Tigers are a unanimous pick over the Indians. The Indians are a little too inexperienced for their neighbors -- Cape 21, Jackson 7.

Portageville at Malden -- Malden is a 2-1 pick to win. The Greenwave has displayed some very tough defense -- Malden 14, Portageville 7.

Charleston at Cairo, Ill. -- The Bluejays are the favorite in this one due to the speed. No one really knows anything about the Pilots -- 34-14.

Doniphan at South Pemiscot -- The Dons are favored to win this Bootheel conference game -- 45-21.

Sikeston at Kennett -- Kennett is a 2-1 pick to beat the Bulldogs. Sikeston seems to have a better team than the scores indicate but maybe that's because I'm a little partial -- Kennett 21, Sikeston 14.

Poplar Bluff at North West -- The Mules are a unanimous choice to win but these St. Louis teams are always good due mostly to size -- Poplar Bluff 21, North West 14.

Caruthersville at I-SC -- This should be a good game as the Rams will be taking their revenge out on the Tigers. I-SC is a 2-1 favorite but Caruthersville has been playing some good defense -- I-SC 13, Caruthersivlle 6.

Chaffee at Hayti -- The Red Devils surprised the area with their upset over the Rams last week but the Indians are big and have some good running back in Danny White and Eddie Martin and big Patrick Thomas - Hayti 30, Chaffee 0.

East Prairie at Dexter -- The Bearcats felt that they were as good at Hayti last week but lost. East Prairie doesn't seem to have enough offense to cope with the Bearcats defense. Dexter 28, East Prairie 12.

NFL East no longer 'weak' division

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Remember when the National Football League East divisions were considered the "weak sisters?"

How times have changed.

Dallas and Washington still are considered powers, but St. Louis and Philadelphia are onetwo in the National Conference East race.

And, in the American Conference East, New England boasts a perfect record after four weekends of play and Buffalo is a contender for post-season play. The division also includes the New York Jets and the Miami Dolphins.

Dallas takes its faltering show on the road to St. Louis to meet the undefeated Cardinals this Sunday, while New England travels to New York to meet the Jets.

In other Sunday clashes, Miami is at Washington, Houston goes to Minnesota to meet the unbeaten Vikings, Pittsburgh is at Kansas City, Los Angeles takes on Green Bay at Milwaukee, Oakland is at San Diego, Cincinnati travels to Cleveland, BuffalB takes on Baltimore, Chicago journeys to Atlanta, the New York Giants are at Philadelphia and New Orleans is at Denver.

The Monday night game will have San Francisco at Detroit.

The Dallas Cowboys, 1-3, have won only once in four outings and need to get started soon or else count themselves out of another trip to the playoffs. St. Louis, 4-0, is off to its best start since 1966 when they won their first five games.

Philadelphia, continuing its drive towards respectibility, takes on a stumbling Giants team that is having, among other things, injury problems. The Eagles have captured their last three outings following an opening game defeat.

The Giants are 1-3 and have four starters who missed last week's game because of injuries.

New England, 4-0, has passer Jim Plunkett, averaging a touchdown for every nine passes, and running backs Sam Cunningham and Mack Herron. The Jets, 1-3, have passer Joe Namath and two changes in the defensive secondary that collapsed against the Miami Dolphins in the first half last week.

Quarterback changes will probably be made for the Pittsburgh-Kansas City contest. The Steelers, 2-1-1, may bench Joe Gilliam for Terry Bradshaw and Kansas City may go with veteran Len Dawson. Both Bradshaw and Dawson have been injured.

The Cincinnati-Cleveland clash is tradition, with Cincinnati, 3-1, appearing the stronger of the two. But Cleveland, 13, has a habit of winning the "Ohio Cup" battle.

O.J. Simpson has an injured leg that has hampered his running so far this year. But Buffalo, 3-1, has quarterback Joe Ferguson, the AFC's leading passer, and runner Jim Braxton, which is more than can be said for Baltimore, 0-4.

Washington, 2-2, will have Sonny Jurgensen calling the plays when the Redskins meet Miami, 3-1. Jurgensen will try to improve the Washington offense that has sputtered behind Billy Kilmer.

Another traditional clash sends Oakland, 3-1, to San Diego, 1-3. The Raiders are favored, but San Diego has found a potent offense.

Chicago, 2-2, is making noises like the Midway Monsters of old. With quarterback Gary Huff, rookie rusher Ken Grandberry and defensive lineman Wally Chambers, the Bears may hand Atlanta, 1-3, its fourth loss of the season. Another loss could be fatal to the career of Falcons Coach Norm Van Brocklin.

Dan Pastorini played last Sunday and may start this week for Houston, 1-3, along with rushers Vic Washington and Fred Willis. Minnesota, 4-0, doesn't have to try anyone new as Chuck Foreman has averaged 125 yards a game by rushing and receiving. He also leads the NFL in scoring.

Both quarterbacks in the Denver-New Orleans battle are hurting.

Missouri Football Facts

Compliments Of

FIRST NATIONAL BANK

The Tigers have had two running backs who have broken the coveted 1,000 yards rushing in a single season; Bob Steuber in 1942 and Joe Moore in 1969.

All—American Steuber rushed 149 times for 1,098 yards. He twice led the conference in rushing. In 1941, Bob rambled for 855 yards on 113 carries.

In 1969, Joe Moore established a Missouri single season record with 1,312 yards in 260 attempts; Moore also holds the Tiger career record with 472 carries for 2,306 yards.

The Missouri record for yards gained during a game is held by Bob Steuber's running mate Harry Ice. In a 35-0 rout against Kansas State, Harry reeled off 218 yards on only 11 tries. A week later, Ice set another Missouri record as he raced to a 90-yard touchdown in a 39-13 romp of Iowa State.

PHILADELPHIA 76ERS

NBA — Atlantic Division

1973-74 finish: W 25, L 57 — 4th place

The 76ers "struck out" during the off-season, failing to sign three players whom they had an opportunity to get and who would have made them title contenders — and most likely division champions. Thus, the 76ers can be stricken from the Atlantic race, and their destiny again appears to be last place instead of first.

Had they signed all three — No. 1 draft choice Marvin Barnes and ABA superstars George McGinnis and Billy Cunningham — or even one or two of them, matters would have brightened considerably and added a new twist to the Philadelphia Story. Instead, Coach Gene Shue, who guided the 76ers to 16 more victories last season than they had accumulated the previous year when they won a mere nine, will have to operate with virtually the same cast.

FORWARDS: Tom Van Arsdale seemed to be near the end of his career when the 1972-73 season mercifully drew to a close. He appeared to have lost his desire and his scoring was suffering. But last season, he regained his old form, averaging nearly 20 points per game, passing off well and maintaining consistency. The most pleasant surprise for Philadelphia last season was Steve Mix. Dropped two years ago by the 76ers, he came back and was a capable scorer (14.9), the second leading rebounder and the top field goal percentage shooter. The reserves, led by Don May and Allan Bristow, are lackluster. Rating: B.

CENTER: Leroy Ellis is, at best, a journeyman. He was the leading rebounder, but barely beat Mix for the honor. He didn't average even 10 points a game (9.0) and his defense was inadequate. He is not the defensive player the 76ers need in the middle to erase the mistakes of others. Hopefully, Bob Rule, back with the 76ers, can regain his old playing form after a series of injuries. Rating: C-.

GUARDS: Fred Carter lacked consistency until Shue came along. Then, Carter became a 20-point scorer (21.4, tops on the club) and the team leader in assists. Larry Jones, like Mix, made the most of a second chance. He was drafted by the 76ers in 1964, but played in only 23 games before being released. However, after stints in the Eastern League and American Basketball Association, he rejoined Philadelphia last season and made some valuable contributions. The big hope at guard is Doug Collins, the No. 1 draft choice in 1973, who sat out most of last season with a broken bone in his foot. Fred Boyd also will be available, as will rookies Don Smith and Conisl Norman. Rating: B.

PREDICTION: The 76ers might not improve on the court this season, but they promise to be more colorful, thanks to new General Manager Pat Williams, the P.T. Barnum of basketball. Of course, Williams believes the 76ers can win and still have fun. He'll have to settle for having fun. Fourth in Atlantic.

SPORTS

CINCINNATI (AP) — The coaching staff of the Cincinnati Reds will remain intact next year, President Bob Howsam announced Wednesday.

Joining Manager George "Sparky" Anderson for the 1975 season will be third base coach Alex Grammas, batting coach Ted Kluszewski, first base coach George Scherger and pitching coach Larry Shepard.

Anderson has another year left in his contract, which Howsam extended during the 1973 season.

All four of the coaches have been with Anderson since he joined the Reds in 1970.

ST. LOUIS (AP) — A morning rush on tickets Wednesday brought about a sellout for Sunday's Dallas Cowboys-St. Louis Cardinals National Football League game, a Cardinals spokesman said.

The sellout of 51,392 at Busch Stadium set the contest up for a first home telecast since the Cards played host to the Oakland Raiders in the early part of the 1973 season.

Still more changes in young WFL

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

For those trying to keep up with the continuing serial of the infant World Football League, here's the latest:

—The league reduced itself to 10 playing teams Thursday by removing the Jacksonville and Detroit franchises from the remainder of the 1974 schedule, but not from the league itself.

—Two of the 10 playing teams called separate news conferences to deny what they called rumors that they would move to other cities.

—Two other WFL teams have already moved in this first troubled season, and yet another is being operated by the league, which is under a court order not to move the club.

Despite all that, WFL officials claim the league's future is strong.

8th grade wins second at Kennett

KENNETT — Coach John Heacox's 8th grade footballers won their second game in as many outings Thursday night by a 32-16 margin over the Kennett 8th graders.

The team used the Student Body left and right plays to do the damage. Powerback Scott Heeb broke loose for 68 yards in the first period to give Sikeston a 6-0 lead as the extra point was missed.

Kennett took the lead in the opening minutes of the second quarter as a pass play was good for a TD and the extra point was added to make the score 8-6.

The lead was short lived as Sikeston came right back on a 47 yard run by tailback Gary Leonard to give Sikeston a 12-8 lead at the end of the first half.

In the third quarter it was fullback Scott Walls turn to score as the fullback scampered 62 yards on the 42 play to make the score 18-8.

A few minutes later Heeb broke loose again, this time on the triple option play, for 57 yards and a TD. Heeb added the two extra points and the score was 26-6.

Kennett scored again on the kickoff by Sikeston.

Scott Heeb rushed for a total of 173 yards. Walls rushed for 95. Leonard rushed for 56. Davis rushed for 53.

"Quarterbacks Jay Cox and Allen Barbrick did a good job", commented coach Heacox. Barbrick also rushed for 30 yards on keepers. The only injury sustained in the game was to Dwight Mills who pulled a hamstring muscle.

EVANSTON, Ill. (AP) — Walter Perrin, a former Northern Illinois basketball star, was named as assistant coach at Northwestern University Wednesday.

Finley hit with 'Catfish' curve

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Jim "Catfish" Hunter, it seems, has thrown a curve at Charles O. Finley, and Mike Andrews has thrown a high, hard one.

The Oakland A's owner may not be able to handle either pitch.

Finley, usually up to his baseball cap in controversy, hasn't even opened his mouth on the eve of the 1974 World Series — but still finds his foot in it.

Hunter, a 25-game winner this season while helping the A's capture the American League pennant, reportedly wants to leave the team after the World Series with the Los Angeles Dodgers.

Hunter, according to a newspaper story, claims that Finley has failed to pay half of his $100,000 salary for 1974.

Reached at a downtown Los Angeles hotel Thursday night, Hunter would neither confirm nor deny the report.

"I'm not saying anything at this time," Hunter said — or rather didn't say.

"I don't want to talk," he added.

Jim Bank, the A's traveling secretary, said he had "heard the story about Hunter ... but you'll have to talk to Mr. Finley about it."

Mr. Finley was unavailable for comment.

The Chicago Sun-Times' story said Hunter had notified Finley a month ago that he planned to become a free agent on Oct. 21, the day after the completion of the World Series, should it last seven games.

Hunter said he received $50,000 of his salary in the regular bi-weekly installments, but Finley refused to pay the remaining $50,000. He said he first asked Finley for payments two months ago and the Oakland owner has since failed to answer three letters.

The final letter a month ago said Hunter planned to declare himself a free agent.

Hunter could have declared himself a free agent 10 days after the first missed payment but delayed his action to participate in the American League playoffs and the World Series.

Retiree survey results pleasing

CAPE GIRARDEAU — First Presbyterian Church has announced that it is pleased with the response received from area churches to its request for help in making a survey of housing and related needs of retired persons in the Southeast Missouri area.

Mrs. Lawrence Bahn Jr., publicity director, said replies have been received from Ste. Genevieve, Malden, Pocahontas, Shawneetown, Burfordsville and Cape Girardeau.

A follow-up letter is now going out to churches not heard from, reminding them of the importance of this ministry to those in their congregations who, in the past, have so faithfully ministered to them. Ministers are requested to send a list of their age 62 and over members so the next step of the survey can be completed without delay.

Mrs. Bahn said the survey will consist of a questionnaire sent to individuals in the Southeast Missouri area who are 62 years of age and above. The questionnaire will not require a signature, all replies will be confidential and there will be no obligation or cost to those responding.

Dr. Raymond A. Ritter Jr. of Cape Girardeau is chairman of the First Presbyterian Church committee which is undertaking the survey, assisted by Presbyterian Housing Inc. of Indianapolis, Ind., a not- for- profit corporation that owns and operates five retirement communities in its home state.

A favorable report on the feasibility of this project will lead to the formation of a nondenominational, not- for-profit retirement community for citizens of the area. It would offer accommodations on a life- lease arrangements which would include meals, housekeeping, health and care and recreational activities.

Mrs. Bahn said she would be glad to discuss the project with any person or group interested in participating in the survey.

THE BIBLE

156. The Death of Absalom

David sent Hushai the Archite into Jerusalem to feign loyalty to Absalom and to thwart the military plans of Ahitophel. Hushai was successful in persuading Absalom to take his entire army and attack David's troops in the wilderness. Then Hushai sent Jonathan and Ahimaaz to inform David to cross the Jordan River and prepare for battle.

As David's loyal troops prepared for battle, he admonished them to deal gently with his son Absalom. The great battle raged, and many soldiers fell that day. During the battle, Absalom came upon several of David's men in the forest. When he tried to escape on his mule, his head was caught between the forks of a large branch of an oak tree. A young man reported the incident to Joab who could not understand why the young man didn't kill Absalom.

"Then said Joab, I may not tarry thus with thee. And he took three darts in his hand, and thrust them through the heart of Absalom, while he was yet alive in the midst of the oak. And 10 young men that bare Joab's armour compassed about and smote Absalom and slew him...." (II Samuel 18:14-17)

DISCIPLINE & FORGIVENESS

2 bound over for robbery

CHARLESTON — Two East Prairie youths, Larry McCutchen and Robert Keith Norman, were bound over to Circuit Court Thursday following their preliminary hearing on first degree robbery charges before Magistrate Judge T. J. Brown Jr.

The charges against the two are in connection with the Aug. 26 robbery at Brown Smith's Feed Store near East Prairie. A similar charge is still pending in Magistrate Court against Gary Brown, also of East Prairie. A fourth suspect, known by the nickname "Speedy", is till being sought.

Testifying Thursday were Brown Smith, Gary Brown, and Deputy Sheriffs Norris Grissom and Robert Smith. According to Brown Smith's testimony, two young men entered his store about 9 p.m. Aug. 26. One wore a paper sack over his face and had a tire tool in his hand. The other wore a ski mask and carried a hand gun, later identified as a B B pistol.

Smith said a total of $225.96 was taken from the cash register by the subject who was wearing the sack over his face. During cross examination, Smith said he would be willing to give the boys a chance if restitution was made and drop the charges. Assistant Prosecuting Attorney John Hopkins declined to accept the offer of restitution.

According to Gary Brown's testimony, he did not take part in the robbery and did not share the money but was in the car with the four youths the night of the robbery. He also said he knew what McCutchen and "Speedy" had planned to do and testified that he and Norman drove around in McCutchen's car while the robbery was in progress, returning to the railroad crossing near Smith's store to pick McCutchen and Norman up.

Statements made by McCutchen and Norman, and introduced in evidence, were identified by Grissom and Robert Smith, who both said they arrested the boys after receiving information from an unidentified source.

McCutchen and Norman are scheduled to appear in Circuit Court Oct. 22 and remain in jail under $3,500 bonds.

Robert Wayne Murphy of Charleston entered a plea of guilty to a charge of stealing under $50 and was given a suspended 30- day jail sentence. The charge was reduced from a charge of steal, take and carry away, in connection with the theft of a garden tiller owned by Bob Warren on Aug. 10. Murphy was placed on one- year probation on condition he obey the law, pay $26.50 court costs and make restitution of $150 to Bob Warren.

A felony charge of shooting into a dwelling house against Frankie Tatum of Anniston was continued to Oct.17 to allow him time to employ an attorney. Tatum, who is free on $1,000 bond, is accused of shooting into a house on the David Barnett farm on Sept. 29.

Forrest Fenton Chandler received a 30- day suspended sentence on a non- support charge and placed on one-year probation on condition he pay Nancy Chandler $20 a week child support, obey the law and pay $19 court costs.

Charles Lee McKinley of Bertrand entered a plea of not guilty to a speeding charge and trial date was set for Nov. 7. He is free on his own recognizance.

Traffic violations brought the following fines: Floyd Cox of East Prairie, speeding, $29; James R. Whybark of Anniston, improper parking, blocking road, $26; Glen Alvin Perry Jr. of Charleston, speeding, $41; J. D. Bearden of Bertrand, speeding, $31; and Marjorie Kristen Erickson of Atlanta, Ga., speeding, $39.

In civil action, judgment of $479.24, plus court costs, was awarded Household Finance Corp. in their promissory note suit brought against Ernest R. and Ellen J. Culver of Charleston.

Judgment for possession of premises, damages of $500 and court costs were awarded Billy J. and Clara M. Humphreys in their unlawful detainer suit against Nora Mae Wilson.

Charges of burglary and larceny against Willie James "Bango" Evans of Charleston were continued to Oct. 17 and he remains in custody in lieu of $2,500 bond.

A felony charge of molesting a minor with immoral intent against Odell "Tadpole" Johnson was set for preliminary hearing on Nov. 14. The charge against Johnson, who is free on $2,500 bond, involves a 12-year- old and the incident reportedly occurred on Aug. 13

Other cases continued to Oct. 17 included: Henry Lynn of Wyatt, defective lights; James Earl McKenzie of Charleston, driving vehicle without an operator's license; and John Kim Stucker of Matthews, public intoxication and supplying liquor to a minor. Stucker is free on $250 bond.

Magistrate Court cases earlier this week were: James Greenlee, no operator's license, $21; Morris Lynn Rhea, speeding, $37; Roger Dale Hanner, speeding, $31; Chris Allen Vanpool, inadequate exhaust system, no tail pipe, $21; Richard Allen Pope, violation of operator's license, $26; Charles Joseph Jackson, speeding, $31.

Blue law repeal effort in trouble

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — Although state Rep. Phillip Scaglia, backed by businessmen in the state's two metropolitan areas, has continued his effort to repeal the Sunday blue law, it appears his efforts in court to have a referendum placed on the ballot may fall short.

Cole County Circuit Court Judge James T. Riley set a second hearing on the matter for Oct. 24, only 13 days before the election, after hearing legal arguments in the case Thursday.

Attorney Cleo Mueller, representing the Kansas City Democrat, told Riley that Secretary of State James C. Kirkpatrick had exceeded his authority in attempting to verify whether the more than 102,000 persons who signed petitions to place repeal of the law on the November ballot were actually registered voters.

Mueller claimed the secretary of state has only the authority to count signatures and determine that they are sufficient to place an issue on the ballot once the petitioners certify that the signatures are valid. Any determination of signature validity after that point rests with the courts, Mueller contended, citing court cases to back up his position.

While Asst. Atty. Gen. Paul Allred, representing Kirkpatrick, claimed court determination is needed only in cases of alleged fraud or forgery, he pointed out to Riley that even if the secretary of state were ordered to place the issue on the ballot, he is in no position to comply because election preparations have gone too far.

Absentee ballots had to be ready for distribution earlier this week by state law, Allred said, and next Tuesday is the final day for setting the voting machines.

But Mueller claimed the delay was caused by Kirkpatrick, whom he alleged had not officially notified Scaglia of the petition's rejection or the reasons for it, as required.

The case of the fowl sandwich

By: JACK STRAUSS, LL.B.

Lois looked good enough to eat and she nearly always did. A qualified candidate for All-American snacker, eating was her favorite pastime.

As she was munching away on a chicken sandwich in Benny's Beanery, however, she became convinced that she was eating her last snack. A chicken bone lodged in her throat and she figured she was a goner.

Upon recovering, she picked a different bone with Benny. She sued him for her injuries.

"It's certainly not my fault," was Benny's defense, "that chickens have chicken bones."

"When a chicken is in the barnyard," was Lois's answer, "it's one thing. But when it's between two slices of bread, it's another. An all- white chicken sandwich should be boneless. Consequently, Benny should be held liable for my injuries."

IF YOU WERE THE JUDGE, would you hold Benny liable for feeding Lois a fowl sandwich?

This is how the judge ruled: YES! The judge held that a restaurateur must exercise care to remove harmful bones as a customer would not ordinarily anticipate or guard against in food that is served. And, in this case, concluded the judge, ordinarily there are no bones in the white meat of a chicken.

Patrol investigates fewer personal injury mishaps

JEFFERSON CITY -- The highway patrol has investigated 1,275 fewer personal injury traffic accidents during the first eight months of this year than the same period in 1973, Col. Sam S. Smith, superintendent of the patrol, has announced.

"There were 7,478 injury producing traffic accidents investigated by our men during the first eight months of 1973 as compared to 6,023 from January through August of this year," he said.

This amounts to a 17 per cent reduction in injury accidents.

The number of persons injured totaled 13,039 in 1973, compared to 10,039 for this year -- a 21 per cent reduction.

This reduction takes on even greater importance, Smith believes when one considers the physical suffering and economic loss usually associated with traffic accidents.

Smith believes this reduction is due primarily to the lower speed limits.

"The extra time taken to reach destinations when driving at slower speeds has paid big dividends," Smith said. "I would urge drivers to continue traveling at or below the speed limit so that there may be a further reduction in the injury and death toll."

As of midnight, Sept. 29, Missouri suffered 741 traffic fatalities compared with 1,068 for the same period in 1973.

In recognizance of this and in hopes of reducing fatalities even more, Gov. Christopher Bond has declared the period Oct. 1 through Dec. 31 as the "400 in '74 Campaign."

The idea behind the proclamation is to reduce the number of fatalities in Missouri by 400 from the number suffered in 1973.

The slogan is "designed to remind the general public that it is possible to reduce Missouri traffic fatalities by at least 400 in 1974," Gov. Bond said.

Schools and teachers do more than educate

By RICHARD B. GILES
Sikeston CTA President

During the past week, during a statewide observance of Missouri Educational Week, the employes of the Sikeston Public Schools have invested time and effort to bring to the citizens of their community what they feel are important educational features of the school system. Also, many facts have been presented to the public concerning the economic statistics which are a vital part of one of the largest enterprises in the area ... the Sikeston R-6 Public Schools. For example, the community has both read and heard that:

1. the school system employs over 500 people serving 4,900 students.

2. has a payroll approaching 3 and 1/2 million dollars ($3,500,000) each year, most of which is spent or invested back into the community.

3. transports 3,600 students daily using approximately 80,000 gallons of fuel each year.

4. serves approximately 4,000 meals daily with mostly locally purchased food.

However, these facts alone are not totally sufficient when one attempts to relate to others the value of public schools to a community. A teacher's contribution to a community does not stop with the performance of their classroom duties and extracurricular school activities. It was in regard to this topic that a survey was conducted among the 300 certificated staff members during the past week. The results of this survey disclosed the following information which should be of interest to the community:

During the past five years every teacher who has been employed at least one year has improved his educational status by attending in-service workshops in this or surrounding communities dealing with a variety of educational topics.

Also, more than one third of the staff members have earned additional college hours of credit at the graduate level at their own expense. Almost one of every six teachers employed has earned a masters' degree during this same period of time.

Teachers also take an interest in the total community in a variety of ways. An example would be the staff voluntary contribution to the community United Fund Drive. The response in the past years has been almost unanimous.

More than 50% of the staff respond to additional calls for educational services in the area churches. In addition to serving as church school teachers and choir members, there are teachers who have served as ministers, a chaplain and youth director.

One out of every five teachers belongs to a service club or fraternal organization. Two-thirds to one-half of these respective members have held a leadership role in these organizations during the past five years. The same one out of five ratio applies to those teachers who are involved in the scouting programs of the community.

Nearly one of every six teachers has donated his time to community programs or committees which include such examples as the Sheltered Workshop, Red Cross, Easter Seals, and the Child Development Center.

Additional areas of service in notable percentages were involvement in Little League, 4-H, and city government. Space would not permit the many remaining areas of service to the community which have the donated services of school personnel and/or the free use of school facilities.

Hopefully, this information will better reveal to the community that their schools not only provide one of the best educational facilities of the state, but that their teachers are also vitally and deeply involved in the total community they serve.

TWINS TO BOOT CAMP --

Twin sons of Mrs. Betty J. Stephenson, 214 W. North, Sikeston; William D. Choate and Sabe D. Choate, 1974 graduates of Sikeston High School departed St. Louis, Missouri for the Marine Corps Recruit Depot at San Diego, California on the 1st of October.

Bill and Bud along with another '74 graduate, Bobby D. Scott, son of Mrs. Donna S. Scott, 110 Autumn, Sikeston, enlisted under the 180 Day Delay program while still attending high school last April. They took full advantage of the delayed enlistment in order to be assured of the guaranteed option that they choose -- MILITARY POLICE. Pvt. Scott took the guaranteed option of Aviation Maintenance and Ordnance.

They all enlisted for a period of four years and after completion of boot camp and their first leave will report to school. Bill and Bud will go to MP School in Georgia and Bobby will report to Memphis Air Station for his aviation training.

Senator turns down SeMo debate offer

CAPE GIRARDEAU -- Citing "a previous commitment" as the reason, Sen. Thomas F. Eagleton declined the offer to debate made by the Southeast Missouri State University Political Science Club, while his Republican opponent, former Congressman Tom Curtin Tom Curtis, accepted the invitation extended by club president Mary Ellen Huck.

In a letter to Miss Huck, dated Sept. 30, Eagleton said, "Thank you for your letter and your kind invitation to participate in a debate on the Southeast Missouri campus.

"Unfortunately, I have a previous commitment on that day and will be unable to join you.

"Thank you again for your thoughtfulness in inviting me. I only wish circumstances were such that I could accept."

In a letter dated Sept. 27, Curtis had accepted all terms of the debate and had reserved the proposed date of Oct. 18.

The letter declining the offer is the only correspondence received by the Political Science Club from Eagleton. The letter made no indication of what the "previous commitment" concerned.

Plans are now being made to invite both candidates for the U.S. Senate seat to speak on campus in separate engagements.

Curtis has already agreed to an individual appearance. The club has not yet been in contact with the Eagleton office concerning the possibility of a separate speaking engagement.

Today in U. S. History

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Today is Friday, Oct. 11, the 284th day of 1974. There are 81 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1811, the first steam ferry was put into operation by inventor John Stevens, between New York City and Hoboken, N. J.

On this date—

In 1776, during the Revolutionary War, Colonial forces under Benedict Arnold were defeated by the British on Lake Champlain.

In 1779, the Polish nobleman, Casimir Pulaski, was killed in fighting for American independence at the Battle of Savannah.

In 1945, Chiang Kai-shek and Mao Tse-tung issued a joint statement pledging to work for peace and unity in China.

In 1962, Pope John the 23rd opened the Roman Catholic Church's second Vatican Council.

In 1970, there was widespread flooding in Puerto Rico after torrential rains.

Ten years ago: The State Department announced that an East German nuclear physicist, Heinz Barwich, had defected and been granted asylum in the United States.

One year ago: President Nixon was seeking the advice of congressmen and party leader before naming a successor to Spiro Agnew as Vice President.

Today's birthdays. Choreographer Jerome Robbins is 56 years old. Newsman Joseph Alsop is 64.

Thought for today: Keep quiet, and people will think you are a philosopher — Latin proverb.

blood. They didn't know what to say about that, so they didn't say anything."

The defense attorneys presented Dr. Chester Quarles of Oxford, Miss., head of the criminology department at the University of Mississippi in Oxford and had on hand a Memphis homicide captain, T. H. Smith, to testify.

Because the hearing was closed to the press, little is known about what transpired in the hearing.

However, a source close to the hearing reported that all Missouri had to base the charge against Dr. Garrison on was the fingerprint which reportedly was lifted by a Missouri highway patrolman alone on the afternoon of the murder. Reportedly no one witnessed the trooper's actual lifting of the print.

Dr. Quarles told The Daily Standard "the Missouri officials conducted a sloppy investigation."

No transcript of the hearing was kept, although attorneys for both sides and the hearing commissioner, Williams, kept notes on the testimony.

The governor's decision on whether to grant extradition could take a week or longer, an informed source said.

After the hearing, Dr. Quarles and Capt. Smith told a Daily Standard reporter that the method of operation of the murder led them to think that it could have been committed by a burglar or burglars.

They also said they think Missouri authorities jumped the gun in filing murder charges at 3 p.m. on the day of the death.

Law officers devise communication plan

BERNIE — "We need to devise a plan for better communication between area law enforcement agencies, Stoddard County Sheriff Ralph Mouser told a group of law enforcement officers at the Southeast Missouri Law Enforcement Officers meeting Thursday night at the Tomahawk restaurant.

Most of the law enforcement officers in attendance agreed with Mouser and worked out a plan in which each county sheriff and city department heads would meet once a month to talk over problems and exchange information. The sheriff of each county will then compose a list of stolen items, outstanding warrants and other useful information pertaining to his county. The list will then be sent to a central coordinator who will get the information out to the other counties.

Another suggestion was to form a major case squad in Southeast Missouri to try to solve some of the more difficult cases.

Guest speaker was Paul McGhee, a Dexter attorney and former Stoddard County Prosecuting Attorney. McGhee spoke of the importance of making a will and the proper handling of an estate. He said that anyone owning property should give careful thought to the proper handling of his estate in case of death. He said one of the things to consider would be putting property in both the husband and wife's name, so that in case of death of either spouse the property would go to the remaining survivor without having to go to Probate Court. He said this applies to an estate under $150,000, but for estates totaling more than that, additional legal advice would be necessary.

He further stated that couples with no children should not automatically assume that the property will go to the surviving spouse. He said without a will a parent, brother or sister could claim half the property. He also said he would discourage the practice of bypassing the spouse and leaving property to minor children. He said this would involve the appointing of a guardian and other settlement problems. He also advised that an estate should be handled in such a way as to not go through probate court if possible. He said a will is always desirable and the total cost of drawing up a will in Stoddard county averages only $37.50.

The next regular meeting set for January will be hosted by the Mississippi County Sheriff's department, and will be held in Charleston. New officers will be elected at that meeting.

$13,500 grant awarded airport

DEXTER — It was announced Wednesday by Sen. Thomas Eagleton and Stuart Symington and Rep. Bill Burlison that an airport planning grant in the amount of $13,500 has been awarded to Dexter Municipal Airport.

The grant is the federal government's share of a project to develop a master plan for the municipal airport. The federal government shoulders four-sixths of the cost.

The city pays one-sixth ($3,375), as does the state.

The airport master plan will provide a guideline for development of the airport. It will include studies of the growth potential and needs of Dexter and the area.

Based on the master plan, the airport board can move ahead in making improvements and considering expansion at the airport.

The master plan was a necessity for the airport board to obtain federal grants for improvements at the airport. The Federal Aviation Administration requires a city to have such a master plan before it will approve further federal matching grants.

The Dexter Airport Board plans to begin a runway improvement project of almost $600,000 once the master plan is complete. The municipal airport has two runways.

The city's share of the major improvement and paving for the master plan will be paid out of profits from a city-owned farm operated by the airport board. The farm surrounds the airport and is share-cropped.

"We get no city monies at all," Dr. Robert Boon of the Airport Board said. The 600 acres of crops provide most of the profit for the airport operation.

The master plan is an extremely long-range concept. "Supposedly, when they (the engineers) get through, we'll have a plan for the next 20-25 years," Willard Brown, chairman of the airport board, said.

The Sikeston engineering firm of Buchmueller, Whitworth and Foust, Inc. has been contracted to develop the master plan.

Charleston man gets prison term

CHARLESTON — Willie Dale McMillen of Charleston was sentenced to four years in custody of the State Department of Corrections Wednesday by Circuit Judge Marshall Craig on a burglary charge and four years on a stealing charge with sentences to run concurrently.

The charges against McMillen were in connection with the April 20 breakin at a barn owned by W. S. Babb of Charleston and the theft of a five-gallon can of Cobex. Probation was denied McMillen and he was given credit for 128 days served in the county jail.

Dissolutions of marriage were granted Willis M. Ciscell and Pauline Ciscell, with her maiden name of Bailey being restored; Vera Harvey and George Harvey; and Wanda Johnson and Leroy Johnson. Mrs. Johnson was given custody of three children and $30 per month child support. Johnson was granted visitation rights.

A damage suit brought by Gilbert James against Ray Northern and Marshall Dean was transferred to Scott County.

According to the Clean Water Commission, sewage treatment at the truck stop is through a modified activated sludge type of plant which aeriates the waste material to neutralize bacteria, then discharges a moderate amount of water that is considered non-polluting. The darkened, partially solid runoff material indicated that a mechanical breakdown may have occurred in the sewage plant. This treatment system requires operating permits both from the Clean Water Commission and the Environmental Protection Agency.

Copeland told the Standard today that the problem is expected to be cleared up early next week.

Board hears report on new program

CHARLESTON — The R-I Board of Education Thursday afternoon heard a report from Mike Back, administrative assistant, on the new distributive education program, which was initiated this school year.

The program, designed to assist students who plan to go into business or sales related fields and do not plan to attend college, has 41 seniors and 44 juniors enrolled at this time. Members of the senior class attend one class period in the morning and arrangements have been made with local businesses to have them work there in the afternoon.

Some students work from 12:30 to 3 p.m. each afternoon and others are employed after school hours. Members of the junior class have only classroom or textbook type activities, according to Back. The class is not limited to only students who do not plan to attend college.

The board voted to take bids on eight new buses for the next school year. These will be accepted at the November meeting.

Student handbooks from junior and senior high school were approved by the board.

A report on the perspective learning test results was heard from Bob Graham, Hearnes Elementary School principal.

The board adopted an amendment to board policies concerning substitute teachers. Under the amendment, non-degree teachers shall be paid $20 per day and degree teachers will receive $25 per day. A degree teacher doing substitute work for one teacher for 20 consecutive days or more shall be paid according to the salary schedule.

OUTSTANDING SERIES

'COLUMBO' ON 'NBC SUNDAY MYSTERY MOVIE' Sundays, NBC Television Network. (In Color, 7:30 p.m., CDT)

This triple Emmy Award-winning element of "NBC Sunday Mystery Movie," honored this year by the Television Academy as Outstanding Limited Series, returns for its fourth season on NBC-TV.

Its Emmy Award-winning star, Peter Falk, portrays the seemingly bumbling but very astute Det. Lt. Columbo.

The upcoming season promises a continuation of the use of location filming at palatial estates where Columbo stalks his affluent suspects who have committed ingenious misdeeds. Looking disheveled, his stogie in hand, the self- effacing sleuth tenaciously pursues his suspect by first lulling him into a false sense of security and then moving in to capture his quarry in a moment of weakness.

Richard Levinson and William Link are the creators of "Columbo" and they modeled their hero after the detective Petrovitch in "Crime and Punishment."

Roland Kibbee and Dean Hargrove are the executive producers with Peter S. Fischer as the executive story consultant. Edward K. Dodds returns as associate producer.

"Columbo" is produced on location in Los Angeles and at Universal Studios in association with NBC-TV.

EMERGENCY RETURNS FOR ITS 3RD YEAR ON NBC TELEVISION

Saturda, NBC Television Network (In Color, 7-8 p.m. CDT)

The working relationship between Los Angeles County Fire Department paramedics and the medical personnel of a major hospital in Los Angeles County forms the theme of "Emergency!", a one-hour dramatic series, which returns to the NBC Television Network in September for its third season.

The increasingly popular series, based on experiences and procedures of the personnel in the Los Angeles Fire Department rescue unit and the County Hospital emergency wing, premiered in January, 1972.

"Emergency!" stars Robert Fuller, Julie London, Bobby Troup, Randolph Mantooth and Kevin Tighe. Fuller portrays Dr. Kelly Brackett, chief doctor of the Emergency Division of the fictitious Rampart Hospital in Los Angeles County. Miss London plays Dixie McCall, Rampart Emergency's head nurse. Troup has the role of Dr. Joe Early, a neurosurgeon in private practice, who volunteers his services frequently to Rampart.

The paramedics are played by Mantooth (as John Gage) and Tighe (as Roy DeSoto). They show the work of the paramedics in Los Angeles County Fire Department's innovative Paramedic Unit, an organization now being duplicated across the nation.

"Emergency!" is produced on location in and around Los Angeles and at Universal Studios by Jack Webb's Mark VII Productions, in association with the NBC Television Network. Robert A. Cinader is the executive producer and Ed Self is the producer.

'TIME TORUN'

Time to Run," a new film that is a mixture of problems and solutions. This is a full-length feature, filmed in Eastmancolor by World Wide Pictures.

Filmed on location in the Southern California area, "Time to Run" stars Ed Nelson, Randall Carver, Barbara Sigel, Joan Winmill and Gordon Rigsby. Ed Nelson is perhaps best known for his portrayal of Dr. Rossi on TV's "Peyton Place." In "Time To Run" Nelson plays Warren Cole, a hard driving success-oriented industrial and scientfiic engineer who, because of over-involvement with his work, has failed to communicate with his wife, Fran, played by Joan Winmill, or their son Jeff, played by screen newcomer Randall Carver.

The film allows the viewer to become involved on any one or more of three different levels. Viewed purely as entertainment, it's the suspenseful story of Jeff's attempts at sabotage in the nuclear generating plant, conceived, designed and managed by his father. Jeff strongly feels that the plant is a threat to the environment and he puts his feelings in action.

Viewed on and emotional level, it is the deeply moving drama of the conflicts that are tearing a family apart—conflicts that develop between husband and wife and between father and son. In an attempt to find freedom from the ever-growing hostilties, Jeff takes to the road, hoping to discover some meaning in his confused life.

Approached from a religious perspective, there also is a story of friction between Jeff and his girlfriend Michelle, played by Barbara Sigel, who is a familiar face to tv viewers. Michelle has discovered a spiritual dimension in her life and this aspect is confusing to Jeff, who has little time for a God who would allow war, hatred, and suffering on earth." But his life is shattered by an avalanche of personal problems, and he finds himself at a Jesus people gathering with Michelle, where he glimpses the possibility of new life-style based on love and understanding.

Regardless of what the viewer draws from the film, the story can help strengthen love relationships between people. It's a film that we made for families to attend—together.

Jeff Cole, who portrays Randall Carver, a college dropout, attended Missouri Military Aademy, Mexico, Mo. In the film "Time To Run," he keeps on the move during his desperate search for a meaning to life. The picture deals with the problems facing a young man, his girl and a family ready to fall apart. It has been endorsed by Billy Graham.

FLIP WILSON'S 1ST TV SPECIAL

PETER SELLERS SIGNED FOR RARE TV GUEST APPEARANCE ON FLIP WILSON'S FIRST NBC-TV SPECIAL OF SEASON

Internationally acclaimed comedian - actor Peter Sellers has been signed to make a guest appearance on the NBC Television Network's first Flip Wilson special: "Flip Wilson ... Of Course," to be colorcast Friday, Oct. 18 (7:30- 8:30 p.m. CDT).

This will mark Sellers' first appearance with Flip Wilson.

Sellers, an infrequent television guest, has concentrated on feature films in recent years, in a variety of roles ranging from the inept Inspector Clouseau in "A Shot in the Dark" to a student of hippiedom in "I Love You, Alice B. Toklas."

Sellers first came into prominence with U. S. audiences in the British film comedy "The Mouse That Roared," although he had been a comedy luminary in Britain since World War II. A member of the BBC series, "The Goon Show," in the late '40s, he began making feature films in 1950. The zany skills which enable Sellers to play two or three roles in the same films are augmented by dramatic talent for non-comedy roles, such as those he played in "The Dock Brief" and "Never Let Go."

Extradition ruling may take a week

JACKSON, Miss. — Dunklin County, Mo., Prosecuting Attorney Charles H. Baker, assisted by a member of the Mississippi attorney general's office and four local attorneys, presented pathological and criminology experts as witnesses Thursday during a seven- hour and 20- minute extradition hearing seeking the return of Dr. Norman A. Garrison Jr. of Corinth to Missouri to face a charge of murdering his ex-wife in Kennett, Mo.

Gov. Bill Waller will receive a compilation of testimony, possibly next week, as he considers whether Garrison should be extradited to Missouri to face murder charges.

The hearing was held before Gov. Bill Waller's legal assistant James Williams, at the state capitol.

Dr. Garrison is being sought by Missouri authorities for the Sept. 8 murder of Lee Ann Garrison, from whom he was divorced in June. The physician has contended that he was in Mississippi at the time of the murder and has not been to Missouri since June.

The hearing was almost an hour late starting, then was dismissed an hour for lunch in mid-afternoon before ending at 6:40 p.m.

Defense attorneys John B. Farese Sr. and John B. Farese Jr. of Ashland, Miss., and John Hopkins of Corinth paraded nine eye- witnesses to the stand who traced Dr. Garrison's moves from early Sept. 7 to late Sept. 8, including two witnesses who claimed they had spent the night with the doctor at a boat dock on Pickwick Lake in Tishomingo County -- 200 miles and a three and a half hour drive from Kennett.

The closed hearing, which has been labeled a legal battle, had all the aspects of a trial, with the exception of a jury. It had been emphasized that the hearing would not deal with guilt or innocence, but an official on the governor's staff said there was no way a hearing could be conducted without both sides presenting evidence to substantiate their claims.

Attorneys representing the family of the murder victim sat in on the hearing with the Missouri delegation seeking extradition of Dr. Garrison.

Witnesses produced by Missouri officials included a pathological expert, Dr. Charles Petty of Dallas, Tex., and criminologist Ray Herd of New Orleans, La.

The Missouri authorities have kept secret the autopsy report of Dr. Pin H. Pu of Kennett and Dr. Robert Ahlvin of Sikeston which reportedly estimates the time of death as being between 8 and 9 a.m. Sept. 8.

It was learned by Daily Standard reporters late last week that the authorities were unhappy with the autopsy's estimated time of death after the reporters had gotten it in a statement from Sheriff Raymond Scott, who said at the time, "I don't know why they won't release it ... it won't change!"

Missouri authorities, including Sheriff Scott, were quoted in the Jackson Clarion Ledger Daily News as saying, "They have conclusive evidence" in the form of the doctor's "bloody fingerprint", found on a portion of a chain link fence outside the home which he had formerly shared with the victim.

For a motive they cited the result of a bitter divorce case in which the victim received a large settlement, $1,000 a month child support and custody of the couple's three children. Dr. Garrison was also ordered by the court in Dunklin County court to pay $100,000 as partial settlement.

A member of Dr. Garrison's family told the Jackson newspaper that although his family does not have the money or influence of the Dr. Loys Wilson family, the Corinth doctor's family will "fight this thing until he is clear, even if it takes three or 15 years."

Sheriff Scott was quoted by the Memphis, Tenn., Commercial Appeal, in an article Thursday, as saying that "he became convinded that the murderer had been wounded in some way. At one point in the case, he said he wanted to talk to Dr. Garrison about three points.

"I knew him personally, and I hoped he didn't do it," the sheriff said. "What I wanted from him was a fingerprint, his blood type and an examination to see if he had suffered any kind of a wound.

"I was trying to prove him innocent until he refused to cooperate with me. At that point, I started trying to prove him guilty. What's more, I believe I have the evidence that is needed.

"Dr. Garrison was pretty popular around here," the sheriff said, "especially with some of the women, and they didn't want to believe that he had anything to do with it. Well, you ought to have seen them when I came up with the fingerprint in

BLOOMFIELD - The State Department of Liquor Control and the Stoddard County sheriff's department conducted a gambling raid at Tucker's Motel and Restaurant at approximately 10 p.m., Tuesday a spokesman at the sheriff's office announced today.

According to a citizen who phoned The Daily Standard office today, "Several prominent citizens were apparently involved in a poker game."

No charges were filed, and no names were released.

"It was just a friendly game, the wives knew where they were, and no complaints had been made," the sheriff's spokesman said.

Richard Irvin, a Liquor Control Board agent who conducted the raid, could not be reached today for comment.

A report has been made to the district supervisor at Cape Girardeau, however, according to agent Jimmy Moore of Poplar Bluff.

He said the supervisor will call a hearing to determine if there was a violation. If a violation is found, the supervisor will then determine the length of license suspension or if the restaurant's liquor license should be revoked.

Steps taken to halt sewage

Pollution threat found

Fishermen concerned about a favorite spot on Wolf Hole Ditch at Highway 80 in New Madrid County brought a possible serious pollution problem to the attention of The Daily Standard and New Madrid County health and conservation authorities early this week.

A large drainage pipe near the Highway 80 bridge was seen pouring what appeared to be sewage waste into the ditch. Conservation officials confirmed the discharge and they and the New Madrid County Health Department referred the problem to the Missouri Clean Water Commission offices at Poplar Bluff.

Late Thursday afternoon, representatives from the commission inspected the site and contacted Earl Copeland, manager of Scotty's Union 76 Truck Stop, where the drainage originated. A spokesman for the commission told the Standard today that Copeland immediately took steps to call in a sewage treatment specialist to determine the source of the failure in the sewage

EAST PRAIRIE — Councilman Wayne Presson submitted his resignation to the City Council Thursday night, listing his reasons for resigning as health and personal reasons.

Presson was elected in April for a three- year term. According to the city ordinance, it will not be necessary to hold a special election to fill the vacancy since the general election is less than six months away. However, a councilman can be appointed by the City Council to fill the vacancy.

The council approved the use of the Teen Town building on Washington Drive by the Retired Senior Volunteer Program for the establishment of a Thrift Shop. Mrs. Carey Johnson, director of RSVP, had requested the use of the building two days a week for the shop in order to raise funds for the program.

Miss Kay Schwartzmiller, a Vista worker, was also given permission to use the building two nights a week as a gathering place for teenagers. Further details are to be presented to the council at a later date.

A request for a package liquor license from Jim Owens, owner of Owens' Saveway Station on East Washington Drive, was tabled by the council. City Attorney Fielding Potashnick is to be determine if Owens will be in compliance with city ordinances.

In routine action, the collector's report for September, showing a total of $25,738 collected, was approved. Also approved was payment of expenditures totaling $8,184.23. The police judge report showed assessed fines of $1,121, with $972.50 of that amount collected and the difference served in jail or worked out on city streets.

The City Council Thursday approved a $600,000 bond issue for a new municipal water plant and authorized the city to submit a bid for the purchase of the Sikeston facilities of Associated Natural Gas.

The council gave its approval of an ordinance authorizing the council to put the bond issue on the November general election ballot.

The proposed treatment plant will add 3.1 million gallons of water to the city's water supply by early 1976.

The bond issue will be repaid with a 12-cent increase per 1,000 gallons over the present water rates.

The city's present water treatment facilities have a capacity of 3.7 million gallons per day. The old water treatment plant is being renovated and will be ready as soon as the automatic control equipment arrives.

City Light and Water company officials say that without the new treatment plant, Sikeston would run short of water in a few years.

City residents were asked to cut back on water usage this summer when the city ran short of capacity.

The new plant will probably be located along Compress Road near the city steam plant.

The council authorized the city to bid on the Sikeston facilities of Associated Natural Gas as part of a pool bid by 22 Southeast Missouri communities seeking to purchase the gas company.

Arkansas - Missouri Power Co., owner of the gas company, has been ordered by the Securities and Exchange Commission to divest itself of Associated. Bids will be opened in Blytheville Nov. 4.

City Attorney Manuel Drumm said the size of the bid was not being made public to prevent competitors from discovering the size of the bid.

The amount of the bid was recommended by William A. Ford Associates, consulting enginneers from Kirkwood.

Charles Church, city manager, said the bid is low enough so the gas company would be operated at its present rate structure.

If the bids by the cities are the high bids, then voters will be asked to approve the purchase in a special election.

Drumm said the city owes the public a complete disclosure on the details of the bid, but the disclosure can not come until the bids are opened.

Sikeston must look closely at the prospect of owning another utility and must decided whether it really wants it, Drumm said. The council should closely question the board of municipal utilities.

If they can't sell you on it, Drumm told the council, then don't go through with it.

The council approved a resolution declaring its support of the United Way fund drive beginning Oct. 15. The drive is seeking to raise $46,000 this year.

Betty Hearnes is Woman of Year

CHARLESTON — Woman of the Year for 1974-75, named Thursday night at the Ninth Annual Business and Professional Women's Club, is Mrs. Betty Hearnes, wife of former Gov. Warren E. Hearnes.

The announcement was made by Mrs. E. R. Putnam Jr., chairman of the event which was held in the National Guard Armory.

Selected as B&PW's Honorary Woman of the Year was Mrs. Verna Knight, who was introduced by Mrs. Don Thompson, first vice president of the club.

Mrs. Hearnes and Mrs. Knight each received engraved silver trays and arm bouquets of yellow roses.

Featured speaker for the evening was Jack C. Taylor of Columbia, billed as "Mayor of Whoopup". The capacity crowd was receptive to Taylor's homespun humor, which touched on such subjects as marriage, education, age, smalltown life and current events.

Mrs. Hearnes was cited for her contributions to the field of music, and her civic and political activities. The mother of three daughters, her primary interests include her family and music, which she has taught in the public schools of Sikeston and Charleston. The family attends the First Baptist Church, where she has served as organist and choir director. Presently she is in charge of the graded choir in her church and has taught at the Baptist Camp at Wendamere. She has also been a member of the Charleston Community Singers and was a soloist in their performance of "The Messiah" in 1973.

Mrs. Hearnes has been honored with a lifetime membership in the Missouri State Teachers' Association; received the "Woman of the Year" award given by the American Association of University Women in 1966; and was named Outstanding Baptist Woman in 1966 by the Southern Baptist College in Walnut Ridge, Ark.

She is a member of the Junior Study Club of Charleston, which nominated her for the Woman of the Year honor; an active member of the Daughters of the American Revolution; P.O.E.; and a past member of the Morning Music Club of Jefferson City. She has been honorary chairman of the Mothers' March; awarded the jewel pin by Beta Sigma Phi for 1966; serves on the board of the St. Louis Symphony; and is a member of the Missouri Historical Society.

Mrs. Hearnes effectively lobbied for the bill funding the Missouri State Council of the Arts, making Missouri the second state to have a funded council. She spoke at the National Council of Arts in Washington D. C.; was the keynote speaker for the 10-State Southern Theatre Conference and headed the Governor's Task Force on Hunger in 1969, the year she was named Woman of the Year by the St. Louis Globe Democrat for her oustanding work in public affairs.

She was named to the Council of the Friends of the Library at the University of Missouri in Columbia and was recipient of the Distinguished Woman of America Award in 1971, presented by Columbia College. She also received the honorary degree of Doctor of Humane Letters from Lindenwood College in 1971 and is an honorary alumni of Williams Woods College.

In 1972, she was elected to the Academy of Squires of the State of Missouri and personally brought the Charleston Urban Renewal plan to the attention of George Romney, director of Housing and Urban Development. She has been a member of the executive committee of the Missouri Baptist Convention and currently serves as chairman of the citizens' advisory committee of the Charleston City Planning Commission and is a member of the Charleston Bicentennial Committee.

Mrs. Knight, Honorary Woman of the Year, was classified as "Mrs. Southern Hospitality", mother of two sons and four grandsons. She has held all offices and chaired all committees in the Business and Professional Women's Club of Charleston and is corresponding secretary for the Junior Study Club of Charleston.

A member of the First Baptist Church, she has been director of the Nursery Department and teacher for 10 years. She is active in fund raising drives for cancer, heart and Red Cross and is a member of the Warren E. Hearnes Democratic Women's Club and the Mississippi County Historical Society.

Serving as toastmaster for the event was W. J. "Pedro" Simmons. Dinner music was provided by Terry J. True, who also accompanied Mrs. Richard Frazier, soloist. Dinner was prepared by the National Guard unit and served by Girl Scout troops. Invocation and benediction was offered by the Rev. R. Vergil Eaton.

Charleston's Woman of the Year in 1973-74 was Mrs. Mildred Wallhausen and the Honorary Woman of the Year was Mrs. Mildred Smith.

Civic Clubs submitting nominations for the honor were the Athena Club, Daughters of Isabella, Junior Study Club, Katherine Boone Music Club and the Molly French Garden Club.

In addition to Mrs. Wallhausen, past Women of the Year include Mrs. Julia Warren, Mrs. Loisella Ellis, Mrs. Lucille Cox, Mrs. Marilyn Stallings, Mrs. Helen Currin, Mrs. Nelsene Hillhouse and Miss Ruth Ellen Heggie.

THE MONEY FOUNTAIN AND
THE POCKET PICKING MACHINE

There was once upon a time in the world a large and well- known Republic by the name of Acirema. It had been noted for its wealth and tremendous business activity. The rulers of this country became obsessed with the idea that they alone knew what the ordinary people should do and how they should spend their money. They continued to increase their hold and influence by the simple means of constantly increasing what was known as the tax burden upon the citizens of this Republic.

Their officials continuously were searching for added means of increasing the things the government was doing and at greater and greater cost. One day one of these officials throught while getting a drink of water, "Wouldn't it be wonderful if in place of squirting water, a fountain could be devised that spouted goldoras?" Goldora was the name of the money used in Acirema.The idea was quickly turned into reality by some of the mechanical geniuses they had. The difficulty now was to get enough goldoras to keep the reservoirs of the money fountains filled. Extra efforts were made by all tax collectors to get in more and more goldoras. But as more and more public officials were constantly visiting the money fountains, the demand was far greater than the collectors could corral.

At about this time one of the top department heads was showing a foreign visitor the sights. They did a little slumming, looking over Skid Row. While there they noticed one of the lighter- fingered gentry quickly lift the wallets of a few passersby. Then was born the idea as to how to solve the problem the Money Fountain had created.

While it was not moral and actually against the law to pick pockets by hand, by a certain line of reasoning that had become prevalent in Acirema, a machine, being simply a mechanical device without conscience or will of its own, there was nothing in the present laws to prevent it from doing what it was illegal for a human to do.

The engineers drew plans and very soon the New Era Pocket- Picking Machine, Model A, was in production. Its success was phenomenal. Every branch of government down to the smallest hamlet wanted both a money fountain and a pocket - picking machines soon became the country's leading industry.

This machine also reduced friction among government employees as the tax collectors were complaining that they had all the hard dirty work of gathering the goldoras while their compatriots were having a ball dispensing them in the "grande manner."

Now consternation was soon widespread throughout the land. The smart folks, those in the know, quickly called a meeting of their executive vice-presidents, accountants, and attorneys. After many hours in a huddle, they came up with the means to circumvent the pocket picker as it would only pick goldoras from a person's side pants pockets. By the simple means of transferring one's wallet to the hip or coat pockets, the machine could not get it. This left the ordinary people of Acirema as the only ones affected.

The reader may think that everyone would understand something so simple, although it required quite some huddling by the top brass to devise this scheme. Also as this country spent huge sums on education that all the people would be at least this smart.

There were many smart children in Acirema who became geniuses, but for the inept they had what was known euphoneously as "progressive education." They also had a pasttime known as "passing the buck" that was along similar lines. In progressive education the inept youngsters were simply passed from teacher to teacher until after 12 years they were given a piece of paper that stated they had progressed from kindergarten thru high school.

It might be hard to imagine how, after 12 years, some of these children had but little more knowledge than when they started kindergarten. But the way many things were done in Acirema, even the improbable was sometimes done quite easily.

The chief officials soon took note of the ways some of the citizens were shielding themselves against their machines. The engineers were called upon for an improved machine and designed Model B. This new equipment would also pick hip pockets, whereupon those in the know simply kept their wallets in their coat pockets. Now the engineers were again consulted and Model C was developed. This machine would pick all pockets of a person's clothing, even handbags to which some folks might have tried to transfer their wallets.

The clever ones had to develop added new ideas, and temporarily were able to outwit the machine by hiding their goldoras in safes, mattresses, cookie jars, behind Aunt Minnie's picture, filing cabinets, hollow wooden legs, etc. But then the scientists invented the infrared snooperscope. The smart- money boys finally had their ears pinned back and were brought to bay by big government thru its handmaiden the pock - picking machine. By adding one of these extra-sensitive gadgets, the super pocket picker was then able to pick goldoras wherever they might lurk.

There was no real fear among the wise folks and they could only think of how to get their goldoras to other lands. But it was too late because the officials had built a road block here. No longer was there any escape for one's goldoras.

Now you may wonder why with all the so-called smart people, with their executive vice- presidents, board of directors, consultants, public relation experts, accountants, and attorneys, they would let such a thing develop.

Well, the good citizens of Acirema were quite a group of joiners and had numerous societies. One of these was the "Order of the Turtle." Many of the prominent people in and out of government belonged to it. In order to be a member you had to agree beforehand never to stick out your neck. Whenever any subject of controversy or a project of big government came up, each member, when asked his views, simply emulated the turtle, hoping that the problem would evaporate or solve itself, or at least that his staff of experts could spare him from being troubled. This time the new science was greater than the old line and not until it was long past the time when it was possible to repair past errors did these folds awaken to the fact that the old tricks would no longer cover their previous short- sightness.

You may wonder what finally happened to the Republic of Acirema. Well, a law discovered by a man named Newton eventually came into action. While the reaction was quite violent and painful, things were eventually righted by the more virile. The good folks of this Republic again started a new cycle. The "Order of the Turtle" disappeared. A new type of education was developed and, while it is not recorded, it is surmised that study of past history was a required subject.

BOND IN '70
ENDORSED LEHR IN '74

In his 1970 campaign for State Auditor, Missouri Governor Christopher "Kit" Bond in effect endorsed Democrat George Lehr for the Auditor's job in 1974.

In those days, a Democrat was in the Governor's seat, and Mr. Bond, a Republican, made a campaign issue out of the desirability of the Auditor's being of the opposite political party.

How else, Mr. Bond asked, can the people be certain the auditor will be independent, free from the Governor's influence and control?

We have not heard much about that issue from Governor Bond this year. No doubt the Republican Governor does not want a Democrat Auditor as a watchdog on his Administration.

The more we think about it, however, there is a lot of merit to Mr. Bond's 1970 position.

How can John Ashcroft, the Republican Auditor, pretend to be fair and independent when auditing the accounts of his campaign manager, Attorney General John Danforth? How can he be fair and independent when auditing the accounts of the man who appointed him to office, Governor Bond?

George Lehr is a certified public accountant — certainly better qualified to be state auditor than the lawyer and college teacher, John Ashcroft.

He is also a Democrat, and, using Kit Bond's logic, that in itself makes him the best choice for the job of Auditor in a Republican administration.

Missouri needs an independent auditor. We hope the voters will choose George Lehr on November 5.

KICKING A MAN
WHEN HE'S DOWN

Workmen's compensation, the original "no fault" insurance, is an idea whose time came many years ago — but still hasn't fully arrived. A lot depends on what state you're in.

In Ohio, a law that just went into effect requires homeowners to pay into the state's workmen's compensation fund if they employ the services of someone -a maid, babysitter, gardner, etc. -to the extent of $50 or more over a three -month period.

Thought the new law relieves homeowners of the prospect of being sued if an employe is injured while working on their property, there hasn't been so much grumbling since the government told housewives they had to make Social Security contributions on behalf of their domestic help and to maintain the requisite paper work.

But in this repect, as Ohio goes, so may go the nation eventually. The newly protected workers in that state are among the 15 per cent of all American workers not covered by any workmen's compensation plan to whom President Nixon referred recently when he ordered the creation of a federal task force to find ways of improving state programs.

Charging that present systems "have not kept pace with the times," he pointed to four areas in which the task force would seek to assist states:

The extension of coverage to all workers; improvement of coverage for occupational diseases and development of less stringent requirements of proof from workers; elimination of "unreasonable limits" on medical and rehabilitation spending, and correction of local legal or technical limitations that bar many workeres from eligibility.

Even when workers are insured, they sometimes have to battle to claim benefits, and when they do collect often find that benefits are not enough to enable a disabled person to live decently.

While the President ruled out federal legislative action until states have had a chance to meet certain minimum objectives, at least one bill already in Congress is aimed at federalizing workmen's compensation by establishing national standards.

Critics of the Javits -Williams bill, however, claim that it may be well - intentioned but it fails to make allowances for the differing cost of living in various regions of the country. The bill is strongly opposed by insurance companies and politicians in California, for example, who believe that state's existing system is better than anything Washington might hand down.

With the most flexible system in the country, California's rate structure changes automatically every year to keep pace with wage and cost of living increases -in a word, inflation.

"Corporations owe it to workmen to insure that they are fully protected, if disabled, and are not reduced to second -class status because their compensation package is based on old dollars," says E.R. DeRosa, president of Mission Equities Corp. the leading California company spcializing in workmen's compensaiton.

They do, but unfortunately many don't, and won't without a great deal of leadership and prodding from the federal government.

P.S.C. COUNSEL
NAMED

Jefferson City — Leland B. Curtis, a 31- year - old St. Louis area native, was named Thursday as the new counsel for the Missouri Public Service Commission.

Curtis, who has been general counsel for the state department of revenue about two years, will replace Michael Pfaff, who is resigning.

When Curtis assumes his new role Nov. 1, he will be the third person to serve as P.S.C. council this year. Harry Wiggins of Kansas City held the position until May 15, when he resigned to run for the state Senate seat held by Lem T. Jones, Jr. (R-Kansas City).

Pfaff succeeded Wiggins but announced only three months later that he too would leave the post.

As P.S.C. counsel, Curtis may be representing the commission a suit brought by The Kansas City Star Company against the commission for alleged violations of the state open- meeting law.

Curtis said last night he will attempt to maintain the "high professional standards" that the commission staff has had through the years.

He said he could not comment on the open- meeting law suit.

Curtis is a former assistant attorney general and is the son of Thomas B. Curtis, republican candidate for the U. S. Senate.

As P.S.C. counsel, Curtis will represent the commission in hearings on proposed utility rate increases and in court cases.

Before July 1, the P.S.C. councel also had the responsibility of representing the public in utility rate hearings.

Since then, that duty has been assumed by the new state office of public counsel, which was created under the state reorganization law.

William Barwick, a former U. S. Office of Economic Opportunity official in Kansas City, has assumed that role.

THE PROBLEM OF CUBA

The estrangement of two peoples who traditionally are friendly is an unwholesome proposition and yet that has been the situation in which Cubans and U.S. citizens have found themselves for more than a decade. This situation came about when the government of the United States finally recognized Fidel Castro for what he really is -- a died- in-the- wool communist whose goal was the undermining of all democratic regimes in this hemisphere and the accommodating of Russian missiles aimed at the U.S. heartland.

Administration spokesmen in Washington say that resumption of diplomatic relations with Havana are not about to occur but the visit of two U.S. Senators sound ominous. It is to be hoped that the umbrella of detente is not about to be extended over the Castro dictatorship. Such a move on Washington's part could have disastrous effects on our relations with other South American and Central American nations. Our friends to the south have resisted for the most part the subversion attempts of Castro.

Some day, the sun will shine again on relations between the U.S. and Cuba. The tyranny of Castro will not last forever. The dictatorship in Havana eventually will decay. The Cubans are a freedom- loving people and they long ago realized that the rule of Castro did not bring agrarian reform but terror instead.

Recognition of Castro now would be an affront on our part to the freedom fighters who gave their lives at the Bay of Pigs in an ill-fatted attempt to save the national soul of Cuba. HLH

'Dirty Scum'? Is Poland's Party Chief Here For His Struggling People -- Or the Soviets?

NEW YORK — Now comes Poland's Communist one- man government, big, husky, tough-talking Edward Gierek with open hands, empty pockets and a heart full of hatred for the Jews.

The record reveals he gained power inside the Polish United Workers' Party Politburo by manipulating the grimly blatant anti- Semitic bloc in the party with the help of First Secretary Leonid Brezhnev of the CP-U.S.S.R.

It was Gierek's anti- Semitic expertise during meetings in Warsaw's big party building (not a half hour's stroll from the remains of the ghetto wall) that gave Gierek the political karate technique with which to destroy imcumbent party chief Wladyslaw Gomulka between 1967 and 1970. Gomulka's wife is Jewish.

The record is as clear as the headwaters of Warsaw's river Vistula. On March 14, 1968, Edward Gierek denounced the Jewish people. His speech, which differed a little from some of Hitler's propaganda mouthpiece Joseph Goebbels, attacked Israel.

"Zionists," said Gierek, "are dirty scum."

He did not reflect sentiment inside Polland. He did not, nor does he today, reflect the Polish people's attitude. I spent much time in Warsaw not too long ago.

Gierek's speech soon enough helped him succeed Gomulka,, an aging man who now can be seen wandering alone in Warsaw's parks. Gierek's word unleashed such anti- Semitism in official party ranks, in that tragic city burned to ashes by Nazi legions, that 15,000 Jews were forced to flee in 1967-69. Mostly they were scholares, teachers, economists, white-collar officials. Thus, today, only 10,000 of Poland's three million prewar Jews still exist -- and I use the word advisedly -- in that struggling land.

Certainly it is anyone's privilege to criticize Israel, the Zionists and the Jewish people. But why "dirty scum"? Why pick up where Nazi harangues left off?

One must use the word sinister here. Party leader Gierek is no provincial. He is in fact a Westerner. He went into the northern French coal pits when he was 13 years old. Later he lived in northern Belgium for 11 years, between the ages of 24 to 35. He is multilingual. He reads Western dailies -- especially the French press. He has a degree from Krakow School of Mining and Metallurgy (Poland) in mining engineering.

Therefore, his is not a fundamentalist approach. He is a realist. He is anti- Semitic for what he deems pragmatic reasons. Meaning that his patron is the equally anti-Semitic Brezhnev.

Let's then be realistic. By his words, let Comrade Gierek be known. He's a shrewd "Stalinist." What does he seek here? If he actually seeks grains, food, and succor for the Polish people, they should have it. I have observed them queue up for the most meager items, shoddy all of it. They queue for meats, vegetables and bread in Warsaw for hours only to find it all gone when they reach the counters.

In Poland recently, Gierek talked like the strong head of state. He said he was flying to America to hear what we had to offer. He knows what we have -- long extended credits at 6 and 7 per cent which our people can't get to build a home or invest in some small business. He wants heavy machinery, expertise and technology.

He wants tourism so he can get hard currency. He wants American corporations to co-produce inside Poland. He wants to increase U.S.- Polish trade from some $700 million annually to over a billion.

That's a grand design -- if it helps the Polish people lighten their burdens, weigh down their dinner tables, increase their wages and raise their living conditions. I know. I heard the people.

Further, there aren't many Poles who wouldn't take less bread for more freedom. Fly to Poland. Stroll Warsaw's streets. See and hear for yourselves. You'll soon learn how much they hate the Communist party and its fake parliament called the Sejm.

Is Gierek really here for his people? He's been a disciplined "Stalinist" for over 40 years. He runs what there is of an industrial plant -- especially in Silesia -- through his tightly controlled Ministry of Machinery. Be assured this is dovetailed into the Soviets' (Brezhnev's doctrine of Soviet hegemony) production charts.

There are many good men in the Polish governmental hierarchy. There are good businessmen in their commerce and industrial ministries and organizations. Some are kind, gentle -- and oh, so wistful. But it's big Gierek, politically sired by Brezhnev, once a whip in the French and Belgium Communist parties, one of the Stalinists who originated the sitdown strike technique (later used here by Walter Reuther in Detroit's auto plants) who is the party boss.

That is the truth about Comrade Gierek. Ask knowledgeable French and Belgium specialists. Anyone who can use the words "dirty scum" should give Henry Kissinger, President Ford and American industrialists some mighty ironbound guarantees on the use of our credits, our machinery and our expertise.

Let it be known that detente doesn't mean a cold peace.

Washington-Merry-Go-Round

JACK ANDERSON SAYS:
Kissinger and Southern Africa

WASHINGTON — From classified documents and dozens of interviews, we have now learned that Henry Kissinger guided President Nixon in January, 1970, along a tightrope between black and white Africa, with a secret tilt toward the white supremacist nations.

It was Kissinger's first big "tilt."

The Kissinger proposals were submitted to the former President as part of a massive review of U.S. policy toward southern Africa, our sources say. Prepared by Kissingeer's National Security Council staff and stamped SECRET on every page, the review is known formally as "National Security Study Memorandum 39." Its existence has been previously reported, but we have obtained a copy.

NSSM 39 offered five "options" for dealing with the explosive black- white confrontation in southern Africa. Supposedly, it was left to Nixon to choose the final policy. To this day, only a handful of Kissinger's closest associates know that he personally recommended the course he thought should be pursued.

Without exception, Nixon accepted Kissinger's recommendations. Here's what Kissinger proposed and Nixon adopted:

-- As a "general posture," Kissinger called for a "balancing" act in southern Africa; he wanted to "straddle" the black-white issue. With an emphasis on keeping it "quiet," he urged a "partial relaxation" of the chill toward the white regimes and an accompanying "modest" increase of aid to the black states. His objective, inside sources told my associate Joe Spear, was to persuade the blacks that the United States sympathized with them while fostering a secret kinship with the whites.

-- Kissinger advocated a slight relaxation of the stern U.S. posture toward white-ruled Rhodesia, an outlaw nation cut off diplomatically from the rest of the world. United Nations sanctions against Rhodesia were penalizing American firms, Kissinger contended, because other nations ignored them. He suggested, therefore, that the United States should prepare plans to "loosen" enforcement of economic sanctions.

-- Kissinger also wanted the United States to retain its consular office in Salisbury, Rhodesia. This was opposed by the William Rogers, then Secretary of State, who argued strenuously that the office should be closed. But Kissinger'ss wishes prevailed until the British, who had accredited the consulate, demanded that it be shut down.

-- The United States should not take sides, Kissinger suggested, in the Portuguese colonial wars. But he urged a "quiet loosening" of the American arms embargo against Portugal's African colonies. The new policy, Kissinger advised Nixon, should permit the shipment to the Portuguese of "nonlethal" equipment with "dual" civilian and military use.

-- Kissinger also recommended that the arms embargo against South Africa should be "relaxed" to permit the sale of nonlethal equipment "intended" for civilian use. The United State should also increase "military contacts" with South Africa, Kissingerr advised, as long as it could be done "inconspicuously."

-- The delicate question of South Africa's control over South West Africa, with its overwhelming black population, should be avoided if at all possible, Kissinger pleaded. It should not be permitted, he argued, to become an issue in Washington's "bilateral relations" with South Africa.

-- As a sop to the black nations of southern Africa, Kissinger proposed a modest increase in foreign aid of about $5 million.

-- Trade between the United States and the white regimes should be encouraged, Kissinger advocated. But he stressed again that it shoud be done quietly. The services of the Export- Import Bank, he added, should be extended to South Africa and the Portuguese colonies.

Kissinger's recommendations were based largely upon "Option 2" in the NSSM 39 policy review. As spelled out in the secret document, this option called for "broader association with both black and white states" on the "premise" that "the whites are here to stay and the only way that constructive change can come about is through them." Under Option 2, the United States would "maintain public opposition to racial repression but relax political isolation and economic restrictions on the white states." Among the "operational examples" listed under Option 2 are these:

-- "Enforce arms embargo against South Africa but with liberal treatment of equipment which could serve either military or civilian purposes."

-- "Remove constraints on EXIM Bank facilities for South Africa; actively encourage U.S. exports and facilitate U.S. investments."

-- "Conduct selected exchange programs with South Africa in all categories, including military."

-- "On Rhodesia, retain consulate; gradually relax sanctions (e.g. hardship exemptions for chrome) and consider eventual recognition."

-- "Establish flexible aid programs in the black states of the region; respond to reasonable requests for purchase of nonsophisticated arms."

This was the course that Kissinger chose and that Nixon followed.

Wyatt woman honored at supper

WYATT--- Mrs. Robert H. Byrne was honored with a birthday supper Sept. 29 hosted by Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Byrne, 1314 East Cypress, Charleston.

Those present for the occasion were Mr. and Mrs. Robert H. Byrne, Mr. and Mrs. Bobbie Byrne, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Byrne all of Wyatt, and Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Byrne, Jeffry and Jenita of Charleston.

At Wits End By Erma Bombeck

It's just my own personal observation, but I don't think God ever meant for men to do his banking, order food, or mail a letter from the driver's seat of the car.

If He had drive-ins in mind, He would have made our arms seven feet long and put curb feelers on our hips.

I have noted only two cars that have swung precariously up to the position where they can comfortably do business. One was a car from demolition derby and the other was a rental. Neither had anything to lose.

Drive-in banks intimidate me the most, possibly because I am "on camera" and quite self- conscious about having the tellers gather and exclaim, "Watch this one, Dorothy, she's the one who fell apart when her fender was ripped off last week."

Consequently, I have become something of a conservative. I pull a good six feet from the window and when the drawer slides out, I find that by opening my car door and forcing my head through my shoulder seat belt, pushing on the brake pedal with my right foot and bending my knee against the gear shift for leverage, I can slide my deposit slip into the drawer providing (a) I discontinue breathing for awhile, and (b) there are no high winds to circulate my deposit in the parking lot.

The mailboxes are something else. I never pull up to one of them that I don't visualize a meeting of the postal department in Washington figuring out how to position the boxes.

"No, no, Chester," says the designer, "You have placed the boxes on the driver's side of the car. We mustn't pamper them. Put them on the passenger side so the driver will have to put the car in park, straddle the stick shift in the console, cup his throat over the window and just try to sail the letter into this six- inch slot."

"Then the slot should be just above the pick-up times that have become blurred and unreadable?" asked Chester.

"Higher, Chester, much higher," smiled his boss.

Yelling an order for five into a clown's mouth is something else again. Especially when you are alone. I feel like such a fool shouting until the varicose veins in my neck surface.

Ann Landers

May-December marriage extolled

Dear Ann Landers: "Seen It Happen" has seen only what she wants to see. Just because she knowns of a May-December marriage that didn't work out (probably some dizzy golddigger married to a rich old goat) doesn't mean none are successful.

I am a 24-year-old woman who is deeply in love with a man twice my age. We have a beautiful relationship. The age difference complements and enriches both our lives. He appreciates my youth and I am greatful for his wisdom. I've never been happier or more content.

I have had relationships with "boys" my own age and they were full of deceit, self-centeredness and very little personal growth. From my point of view, THAT was prostitution. I was tolerating a lot of boredom and nonsense for what I could get out of it, mainly, a chance to go out and see and be seen, rather than stay home.

I suggest "Seen It Happen" either open her syes or keep her jealous mouth shut because she hasn't seen it all. -- An Exception

Dear Exception: I received an unexpected avalanche of letters from women who expressed the same point of view. Yours was the best. Thanks for writing.

Dear Ann Landers: I am 24 years of age, attractive (according to my friends) and although I had my leg amputated two years ago I feel normal and am happier than most two-legged girls I know. I view my "handicap" as a challenge and have never let it get me down. Since my leg is off at the hip I've found it much easier to use crutches than an artificial limb.

The problem is my mother. I love pant suits, short skirts and the current styles for women my age. My mother keeps nagging me to wear longer skirts, she hates pants , and insists I should dress so people will look at the upper part of me.

When I told her I was buying a bathing suit she said, "I don't see how you have the nerve."

Please, Ann, I need some advice. --Terry Who Is Hoping You're With Me

Dear Terry: I am. All the way. A 24-year-old women is old enough to select her wardrobe without "help" from her mother. I hope you will tell her so.

Your attitude is super. You've done a remarkable job of adjusting to a handicap that would throw most young women for a loop. I am filled with admiration.

Dear An Landers: About ten years ago my mother and her brother had a bitter argument and stopped seeing each other. I know my mother missed him a great deal. I suspect he missed her, too, because once they were very close.

Recently my mother became seriously ill. The doctors say she can't live much longer. When her brother found out how sick she was, he and his wife came to see her immediately. They brought flowers and gifts. Now they are friendly again.

How sad when relatives have fights and stop speaking to each other. The years go by--years when they could be having good times together sharing happy experience. When tragedy strikes everybody wishes they had behaved differently.

Please tell your readers not to wait until death is at the door before they forgive and forget, because-- Life Is Too Short

Dear Life: I wonder how many people who read your letter saw themselves. If they did, I hope they will take your advice. Thank you for sitting in my chiar today.

Tennis team downs Kennett 6-5

SHS wins close game

The Sikeston High School girls tennis team won a close game Thursday night by a 6-5 margin over the visiting Kennett girls.

The Sikeston team virtually sewed up the victory during singles competition by winning five of the eight individual matches. The SHS girls added the decisive point by winning one of three doubles matches.

The most exciting match of the afternoon came in doubles competition where Sikeston's Jeannie Vines and Melissa Lea lost a 5-1 tie-breaker to Kennett's Tenna and Cindy Richardson after battling to an 8-8 standoff. SHS coach Berta Schuerenberg noted that the Kennett girls are identical twins and "really play strong tennis. They are by far the strongest doubles team we've seen."

Two SHS girls, Mary Sikes and Susan Drumm, still have a perfect record in singles play. Miss Sikes is one of two seniors on the team, while Miss Drumm is a freshman.

Lynn Bizzell, another freshman, lost her first match of the season Thursday night.

Jeannie Vines, the No. 1 SHS singles player, won her match handily by an 8-5 margin over Jan Hodges. Gail Strickland, the No. 4 player and a freshman, also easily won her match, 8-2. Nancy Bohannon was another easy winner during singles combat, 8-5.

Individual scores, with Sikeston girls listed first, included:

Jeannie Vines defeated Jan Hodges, 8-5; Marilyn Neel lost to Karen Moore, 8-4; Lynn Bizzell lost to Teena Richardson, 8-6; Gail Strickland defeated Cindy Richardson, 8-2; Cindy Davis lost a tie-breaker to Tammy Bowman, 5-4; Mary Sikes defeated Christy Billington, 8-3; Susan Drumm beat Sandy Crawford, 8-0; and Nancy Bohannon defeated Cindy Simer, 8-5.

In addition to the Vines-Lea loss to Kennett's Richardson duo, doubles scores included: Gail Strickland and Linda Green lost to Karen Moore and Jan Hodges, 8-2, and Melissa Eaves and Dana Livington defeated Sandy Crawford and Christy Billington in a 5-1 tie-breaker.

Next Wednesday the SHS team will travel to Poplar Bluff for play beginning at 4 p.m.

Beth Hambrick low scorer in SHS girls golf matches

Beth Hambrick was low scorer for the Sikeston High School girls golf team in two matches this week. The SHS girls lost Tuesday at Malden, but returned home Thursday afternoon to defeat Kennett.

Sikeston toured the Malden course in 251 strokes and lost by 10 strokes to the Malden girls, who posted a 241 total. However, the SHS girls turned the tables Thursday and beat Kennett by eight shots, 240-248. The matches brought the SHS record to 2-1 going into the next outing which is set at 4 p.m. Tuesday at the Sikeston Country Club against the Malden team.

Miss Hambrick turned in the low score in both matches this week, posting a 50 Thursday and touring Tuesday's nine-hole round in 57 strokes.

Other individual scores for Sikeston girls in Thursday's match included: Lynn Lacefield, 59; Tanya Hesselrode, 65; Darla Jackson, 66; and Tammy Houchins, 74. Scores for Kennett girls were: Linda Brigance, 58; Rosy Fender, 62; Regina Beck and Christi Southern, 64; and Melanie Clevenger, 69.

Tuesday's individual scores at Malden were: Miss Hambrick, 57; Lynn Lacefield and Darla Jackson, 64; Tanya Hesselrode, 66; and Tammy Houchins, 80. Malden scores were Dana Park, 58; Patricia Morehead, 59; Judy Kilmer, 60; Melissa Threlkald, 64; and Vicki Black, 84.

SHS falls to Richland

Volleyball teams defeated

The Sikeston High School girls volleyball teams were defeated by the Richland Rebels Thursday night at the Sikeston Field House.

The A-team lost by identical 15-5 scores in two straight games. Sikeston won the second game of the B-team match, 15-13, but Richland came back to take the match by adding a 15-7 third game decision to a 15-9 victory in the opening game.

Mary Lowney proved to be the key server in the second game of the B-match, bringing the SHS team from behind to pull out the two-point victory.

"After playing these Stoddard County Conference teams, the girls are beginning to see how valuable teamwork is in the game," the SHS coach stated.

The next encounter for the Sikeston teams is scheduled at 6:30 p.m. Tuesday in the SHS Field House against Notre Dame High School of Cape Girardeau. In a previous meeting with Notre Dame this season, the SHS B-team won, while the A-team lost a close match.

State small college football schedule

By The Associated Press

Southwest Missouri holds it homecoming celebration Saturday and hopes invading Central Missouri doesn't spoil it as the Missouri Intercollegiate Athletic Association opens its conference campaign.

The invading Mules are 2-2 this season and Southwest is 31.

Southeast Missouri, 2-2, opens defense of its conference championship at Missouri Rolla, also 2-2. Jim Lohr, Southeast's new coach, has had to rebuild considerably this year after the Indians lost 13 lettermen from the 1973 title team.

The other conference game sends Northwest Missouri, 3-1, to Lincoln, 2-2, at night. Northeast Missouri, 2-2, goes to Wayne State in Michigan for its final tuneup test.

Three league games are scheduled in the Heart of America Conference. Unbeaten Missouri Valley, tied 14-14 by Tarkio in last week's league opener, invades Ottawa, a 35-24 loser in its first conference game against Central Methodist. Valley's deadlock with Tarkio was a bitter pill since the Vikings had thrashed the Owls a year ago 63-0.

Tarkio turns its attention, also in a night tilt, to William Jewell at Liberty, Mo. Jewell will be making its first appearance of the season after carving a 2-2 mark against outsiders.

Baker visits Central Methodist in the afternoon. Baker's inaugural resulted in a 28-16 loss to Graceland of Iowa. Graceland is idle.

Washington University continues its bid for an unbeaten season at Wabash in Indiana. The Battling Bears of St. Louis are 4-0 and went on a coring spree last week in a 51-15 victory over Centre.

The other Missouri independent teams also will be busy. Culver-Stockton, 3-1, has an afternoon contest at Illinois College. Missouri Western will be seeking its first victory in six starts at home against Iowa Wesleyan Saturday night. Missouri Southern, 1-2, goes to Arkansas Tech, also at night.

Kennett game is big one

Momentum is a big thing in an emotional sports like football, and tonight the winless Sikeston Bulldogs take their act on the road to try to re- establish some of that momentum they held in two narrow losses to physically large teams in the season's first couple of contests against Farmington and Bishop- Lillis. It has been a whole year, and nine games, since the red- clad Bulldogs last claimed victory. And, that was a narrow 14-6 count over the Kennett Indians last season. Tonight the Bulldogs face Kennett again, only this time the two teams will be playing at Kennett and some of the Indians boys appear to have grown while the Sikeston boys have failed to.

The Indians will be the second- largest team the Bulldogs have faced all year when they take to the gridiron in tonight's 7:30 conference clash. Although not quite as fast as earlier SHS opponents, the Indians have an offensive line that averages nearly 195 pounds per man -- or about 35 pounds per man larger than Sikeston. Veterans are also the rule for the Indians with nine lettermen returning on offense. Not numbered among the veterans is the Kennett offensive leader, quarterback Robert Roundtree.

The Sikeston team has been hurt badly by mistakes and injuries this year. They have turned the ball over 18 times in the first four games, yet have been saved some embarrassment by a tough defense which hadn't cracked until they were ripped 32-7 by the Charleston Blue Jays. With two weeks passing since their last outing the Bulldogs have had a chance for some of their walking injured to heal, and hopefully will be in good physical shape for the game,

The contest is a big one for the Bulldogs. They stand 0-4, and games against two of the district's top teams, Cape and Poplar Bluff, are included in their last four after tonight. So, tonight's contest is a big one -- one in which Sikeston must establish some momentum and confidence. The Kennett Indians aren't going to cooperate any, so the game should be a very interesting one.

CINCINNATI (AP) — Horst Muhlmann, the Cincinnati Bengals West German placekicker, had his own idea on what it meant to beat the Washington Redskins 28-17 last Sunday.

Prediction percentages poor

The Daily Standard Prognostication panel enters its fifth week and is having very little success predicting the outcome of the weekend football games.

Our predictions didn't make the paper last week due to difficulties not our own but none of our panel faired too well anyway, particularly yours truly. Danny Denton failed completely in his first attempt. Danny picked Dexter over Hayti. The outcome was close but we go by who win or loses not by how close the score is.

The Charleston and I-SC losses really caused the percentages to go down last week. Two members came up with 4-4 picks and two others picked only one of eight right.

Maybe the guessing will get easier as the weeks pass by.

Cape Central at Jackson -- The Tigers are a unanimous pick over the Indians. The Indians are a little too inexperienced for their neighbors -- Cape 21, Jackson 7.

Portageville at Malden -- Malden is a 2-1 pick to win. The Greenwave has displayed some very tough defense -- Malden 14, Portageville 7.

Charleston at Cairo, Ill. -- The Bluejays are the favorite in this one due to the speed. No one really knows anything about the Pilots -- 34-14.

Doniphan at South Pemiscot -- The Dons are favored to win this Bootheel conference game -- 45-21.

Sikeston at Kennett -- Kennett is a 2-1 pick to beat the Bulldogs. Sikeston seems to have a better team than the scores indicate but maybe that's because I'm a little partial -- Kennett 21, Sikeston 14.

Poplar Bluff at North West -- The Mules are a unanimous choice to win but these St. Louis teams are always good due mostly to size -- Poplar Bluff 21, North West 14.

Caruthersville at I-SC -- This should be a good game as the Rams will be taking their revenge out on the Tigers. I-SC is a 2-1 favorite but Caruthersville has been playing some good defense -- I-SC 13, Caruthersivlle 6.

Chaffee at Hayti -- The Red Devils surprised the area with their upset over the Rams last week but the Indians are big and have some good running back in Danny White and Eddie Martin and big Patrick Thomas - Hayti 30, Chaffee 0.

East Prairie at Dexter -- The Bearcats felt that they were as good at Hayti last week but lost. East Prairie doesn't seem to have enough offense to cope with the Bearcats defense. Dexter 28, East Prairie 12.

NFL East no longer 'weak' division

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Remember when the National Football League East divisions were considered the "weak sisters?"

How times have changed.

Dallas and Washington still are considered powers, but St. Louis and Philadelphia are onetwo in the National Conference East race.

And, in the American Conference East, New England boasts a perfect record after four weekends of play and Buffalo is a contender for post-season play. The division also includes the New York Jets and the Miami Dolphins.

Dallas takes its faltering show on the road to St. Louis to meet the undefeated Cardinals this Sunday, while New England travels to New York to meet the Jets.

In other Sunday clashes, Miami is at Washington, Houston goes to Minnesota to meet the unbeaten Vikings, Pittsburgh is at Kansas City, Los Angeles takes on Green Bay at Milwaukee, Oakland is at San Diego, Cincinnati travels to Cleveland, BuffalB takes on Baltimore, Chicago journeys to Atlanta, the New York Giants are at Philadelphia and New Orleans is at Denver.

The Monday night game will have San Francisco at Detroit.

The Dallas Cowboys, 1-3, have won only once in four outings and need to get started soon or else count themselves out of another trip to the playoffs. St. Louis, 4-0, is off to its best start since 1966 when they won their first five games.

Philadelphia, continuing its drive towards respectibility, takes on a stumbling Giants team that is having, among other things, injury problems. The Eagles have captured their last three outings following an opening game defeat.

The Giants are 1-3 and have four starters who missed last week's game because of injuries.

New England, 4-0, has passer Jim Plunkett, averaging a touchdown for every nine passes, and running backs Sam Cunningham and Mack Herron. The Jets, 1-3, have passer Joe Namath and two changes in the defensive secondary that collapsed against the Miami Dolphins in the first half last week.

Quarterback changes will probably be made for the Pittsburgh-Kansas City contest. The Steelers, 2-1-1, may bench Joe Gilliam for Terry Bradshaw and Kansas City may go with veteran Len Dawson. Both Bradshaw and Dawson have been injured.

The Cincinnati-Cleveland clash is tradition, with Cincinnati, 3-1, appearing the stronger of the two. But Cleveland, 13, has a habit of winning the "Ohio Cup" battle.

O.J. Simpson has an injured leg that has hampered his running so far this year. But Buffalo, 3-1, has quarterback Joe Ferguson, the AFC's leading passer, and runner Jim Braxton, which is more than can be said for Baltimore, 0-4.

Washington, 2-2, will have Sonny Jurgensen calling the plays when the Redskins meet Miami, 3-1. Jurgensen will try to improve the Washington offense that has sputtered behind Billy Kilmer.

Another traditional clash sends Oakland, 3-1, to San Diego, 1-3. The Raiders are favored, but San Diego has found a potent offense.

Chicago, 2-2, is making noises like the Midway Monsters of old. With quarterback Gary Huff, rookie rusher Ken Grandberry and defensive lineman Wally Chambers, the Bears may hand Atlanta, 1-3, its fourth loss of the season. Another loss could be fatal to the career of Falcons Coach Norm Van Brocklin.

Dan Pastorini played last Sunday and may start this week for Houston, 1-3, along with rushers Vic Washington and Fred Willis. Minnesota, 4-0, doesn't have to try anyone new as Chuck Foreman has averaged 125 yards a game by rushing and receiving. He also leads the NFL in scoring.

Both quarterbacks in the Denver-New Orleans battle are hurting.

Missouri Football Facts

Compliments Of

FIRST NATIONAL BANK

The Tigers have had two running backs who have broken the coveted 1,000 yards rushing in a single season; Bob Steuber in 1942 and Joe Moore in 1969.

All—American Steuber rushed 149 times for 1,098 yards. He twice led the conference in rushing. In 1941, Bob rambled for 855 yards on 113 carries.

In 1969, Joe Moore established a Missouri single season record with 1,312 yards in 260 attempts; Moore also holds the Tiger career record with 472 carries for 2,306 yards.

The Missouri record for yards gained during a game is held by Bob Steuber's running mate Harry Ice. In a 35-0 rout against Kansas State, Harry reeled off 218 yards on only 11 tries. A week later, Ice set another Missouri record as he raced to a 90-yard touchdown in a 39-13 romp of Iowa State.

PHILADELPHIA 76ERS

NBA — Atlantic Division

The 76ers "struck out" during the off-season, failing to sign three players whom they had an opportunity to get and who would have made them title contenders — and most likely division champions. Thus, the 76ers can be stricken from the Atlantic race, and their destiny again appears to be last place instead of first.

Had they signed all three — No. 1 draft choice Marvin Barnes and ABA superstars George McGinnis and Billy Cunningham — or even one or two of them, matters would have brightened considerably and added a new twist to the Philadelphia Story. Instead, Coach Gene Shue, who guided the 76ers to 16 more victories last season than they had accumulated the previous year when they won a mere nine, will have to operate with virtually the same cast.

FORWARDS: Tom Van Arsdale seemed to be near the end of his career when the 1972-73 season mercifully drew to a close. He appeared to have lost his desire and his scoring was suffering. But last season, he regained his old form, averaging nearly 20 points per game, passing off well and maintaining consistency. The most pleasant surprise for Philadelphia last season was Steve Mix. Dropped two years ago by the 76ers, he came back and was a capable scorer (14.9), the second leading rebounder and the top field goal percentage shooter. The reserves, led by Don May and Allan Bristow, are lackluster. Rating: B.

CENTER: Leroy Ellis is, at best, a journeyman. He was the leading rebounder, but barely beat Mix for the honor. He didn't average even 10 points a game (9.0) and his defense was inadequate. He is not the defensive player the 76ers need in the middle to erase the mistakes of others. Hopefully, Bob Rule, back with the 76ers, can regain his old playing form after a series of injuries. Rating: C-.

GUARDS: Fred Carter lacked consistency until Shue came along. Then, Carter became a 20-point scorer (21.4, tops on the club) and the team leader in assists. Larry Jones, like Mix, made the most of a second chance. He was drafted by the 76ers in 1964, but played in only 23 games before being released. However, after stints in the Eastern League and American Basketball Association, he rejoined Philadelphia last season and made some valuable contributions. The big hope at guard is Doug Collins, the No. 1 draft choice in 1973, who sat out most of last season with a broken bone in his foot. Fred Boyd also will be available, as will rookies Don Smith and Conie Norman. Rating: B.

PREDICTION: The 76ers might not improve on the court this season, but they promise to be more colorful, thanks to new General Manager Pat Williams, the P.T. Barnum of basketball. Of course, Williams believes the 76ers can win and still have fun. He'll have to settle for having fun. Fourth in Atlantic.

SPORTS

CINCINNATI (AP) — The coaching staff of the Cincinnati Reds will remain intact next year, President Bob Howsam announced Wednesday.

Joining Manager George "Sparky" Anderson for the 1975 season will be third base coach Alex Grammas, batting coach Ted Kluszewski, first base coach George Scherger and pitching coach Larry Shepard.

Anderson has another year left in his contract, which Howsam extended during the 1973 season.

All four of the coaches have been with Anderson since he joined the Reds in 1970.

ST. LOUIS (AP) — A morning rush on tickets Wednesday brought about a sellout for Sunday's Dallas Cowboys-St. Louis Cardinals National Football League game, a Cardinals spokesman said.

The sellout of 51,392 at Busch Stadium set the contest up for a first home telecast since the Cards played host to the Oakland Raiders in the early part of the 1973 season.

Still more changes in young WFL

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

For those trying to keep up with the continuing serial of the infant World Football League, here's the latest:

—The league reduced itself to 10 playing teams Thursday by removing the Jacksonville and Detroit franchises from the remainder of the 1974 schedule, but not from the league itself.

—Two of the 10 playing teams called separate news conferences to deny what they called rumors that they would move to other cities.

—Two other WFL teams have already moved in this first troubled season, and yet another is being operated by the league, which is under a court order not to move the club.

Despite all that, WFL officials claim the league's future is strong.

8th grade wins second at Kennett

KENNETT — Coach John Heacox's 8th grade footballers won their second game in as many outings Thursday night by a 32-16 margin over the Kennett 8th graders.

The team used the Student Body left and right plays to do the damage. Powerback Scott Heeb broke loose for 68 yards in the first period to give Sikeston a 6-0 lead as the extra point was missed.

Kennett took the lead in the opening minutes of the second quarter as a pass play was good for a TD and the extra point was added to make the score 8-6.

The lead was short lived as Sikeston came right back on a 47 yard run by tailback Gary Leonard to give Sikeston a 12-8 lead at the end of the first half.

In the third quarter it was fullback Scott Walls turn to score as the fullback scampered 62 yards on the 42 play to make the score 18-8.

A few minutes later Heeb broke loose again, this time on the triple option play, for 57 yards and a TD. Heeb added the two extra points and the score was 26-6.

Kennett scored again on the kickoff by Sikeston.

Scott Heeb rushed for a total of 173 yards. Walls rushed for 95. Leonard rushed for 56. Davis rushed for 53.

"Quarterbacks Jay Cox and Allen Barbrick did a good job", commented coach Heacox. Barbrick also rushed for 30 yards on keepers. The only injury sustained in the game was to Dwight Mills who pulled a hamstring muscle.

EVANSTON, Ill. (AP) — Walter Perrin, a former Northern Illinois basketball star, was named as assistant coach at Northwestern University Wednesday.

Finley hit with 'Catfish' curve

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Jim "Catfish" Hunter, it seems, has thrown a curve at Charles O. Finley, and Mike Andrews has thrown a high, hard one.

The Oakland A's owner may not be able to handle either pitch.

Finley, usually up to his baseball cap in controversy, hasn't even opened his mouth on the eve of the 1974 World Series — but still finds his foot in it.

Hunter, a 25-game winner this season while helping the A's capture the American League pennant, reportedly wants to leave the team after the World Series with the Los Angeles Dodgers.

Hunter, according to a newspaper story, claims that Finley has failed to pay half of his $100,000 salary for 1974.

Reached at a downtown Los Angeles hotel Thursday night, Hunter would neither confirm nor deny the report.

"I'm not saying anything at this time," Hunter said — or rather didn't say.

"I don't want to talk," he added.

Jim Bank, the A's traveling secretary, said he had "heard the story about Hunter ... but you'll have to talk to Mr. Finley about it."

Mr. Finley was unavailable for comment.

The Chicago Sun-Times' story said Hunter had notified Finley a month ago that he planned to become a free agent on Oct. 21, the day after the completion of the World Series, should it last seven games.

Hunter said he received $50,000 of his salary in the regular bi-weekly installments, but Finley refused to pay the remaining $50,000. He said he first asked Finley for payments two months ago and the Oakland owner has since failed to answer three letters.

The final letter a month ago said Hunter planned to declare himself a free agent.

Hunter could have declared himself a free agent 10 days after the first missed payment but delayed his action to participate in the American League playoffs and the World Series.

Retiree survey results pleasing

CAPE GIRARDEAU — First Presbyterian Church has announced that it is pleased with the response received from area churches to its request for help in making a survey of housing and related needs of retired persons in the Southeast Missouri area.

Mrs. Lawrence Bahn Jr., publicity director, said replies have been received from Ste. Genevieve, Malden, Pocahontas, Shawneetown, Burfordsville and Cape Girardeau.

A follow-up letter is now going out to churches not heard from, reminding them of the importance of this ministry to those in their congregations who, in the past, have so faithfully ministered to them. Ministers are requested to send a list of their age 62 and over members so the next step of the survey can be completed without delay.

Mrs. Bahn said the survey will consist of a questionnaire sent to individuals in the Southeast Missouri area who are 62 years of age and above. The questionnaire will not require a signature, all replies will be confidential and there will be no obligation or cost to those responding.

Dr. Raymond A. Ritter Jr. of Cape Girardeau is chairman of the First Presbyterian Church committee which is undertaking the survey, assisted by Presbyterian Housing Inc. of Indianapolis, Ind., a not- for- profit corporation that owns and operates five retirement communities in its home state.

A favorable report on the feasibility of this project will lead to the formation of a nondenominational, not- for-profit retirement community for citizens of the area. It would offer accommodations on a life- lease arrangements which would include meals, housekeeping, health and care and recreational activities.

Mrs. Bahn said she would be glad to discuss the project with any person or group interested in participating in the survey.

THE BIBLE

156. The Death of Absalom

David sent Hushai the Archite into Jerusalem to feign loyalty to Absalom and to thwart the military plans of Ahitophel. Hushai was successful in persuading Absalom to take his entire army and attack David's troops in the wilderness. Then Hushai sent Jonathan and Ahimaaz to inform David to cross the Jordan River and prepare for battle.

As David's loyal troops prepared for battle, he admonished them to deal gently with his son Absalom. The great battle raged, and many soldiers fell that day. During the battle, Absalom came upon several of David's men in the forest. When he tried to escape on his mule, his head was caught between the forks of a large branch of an oak tree. A young man reported the incident to Joab who could not understand why the young man didn't kill Absalom.

"Then said Joab, I may not tarry thus with thee. And he took three darts in his hand, and thrust them through the heart of Absalom, while he was yet alive in the midst of the oak. And 10 young men that bare Joab's armour compassed about and smote Absalom and slew him...." (II Samuel 18:14-17)

DISCIPLINE & FORGIVENESS

2 bound over for robbery

CHARLESTON — Two East Prairie youths, Larry McCutchen and Robert Keith Norman, were bound over to Circuit Court Thursday following their preliminary hearing on first degree robbery charges before Magistrate Judge T. J. Brown Jr.

The charges against the two are in connection with the Aug. 26 robbery at Brown Smith's Feed Store near East Prairie. A similar charge is still pending in Magistrate Court against Gary Brown, also of East Prairie. A fourth suspect, known by the nickname "Speedy", is till being sought.

Testifying Thursday were Brown Smith, Gary Brown, and Deputy Sheriffs Norris Grissom and Robert Smith. According to Brown Smith's testimony, two young men entered his store about 9 p.m. Aug. 26. One wore a paper sack over his face and had a tire tool in his hand. The other wore a ski mask and carried a hand gun, later identified as a B B pistol.

Smith said a total of $225.96 was taken from the cash register by the subject who was wearing the sack over his face. During cross examination, Smith said he would be willing to give the boys a chance if restitution was made and drop the charges. Assistant Prosecuting Attorney John Hopkins declined to accept the offer of restitution.

According to Gary Brown's testimony, he did not take part in the robbery and did not share the money but was in the car with the four youths the night of the robbery. He also said he knew what McCutchen and "Speedy" had planned to do and testified that he and Norman drove around in McCutchen's car while the robbery was in progress, returning to the railroad crossing near Smith's store to pick McCutchen and Norman up.

Statements made by McCutchen and Norman, and introduced in evidence, were identified by Grissom and Robert Smith, who both said they arrested the boys after receiving information from an unidentified source.

McCutchen and Norman are scheduled to appear in Circuit Court Oct. 22 and remain in jail under $3,500 bonds.

Robert Wayne Murphy of Charleston entered a plea of guilty to a charge of stealing under $50 and was given a suspended 30- day jail sentence. The charge was reduced from a charge of steal, take and carry away, in connection with the theft of a garden tiller owned by Bob Warren on Aug. 10. Murphy was placed on one- year probation on condition he obey the law, pay $26.50 court costs and make restitution of $150 to Bob Warren.

A felony charge of shooting into a dwelling house against Frankie Tatum of Anniston was continued to Oct.17 to allow him time to employ an attorney. Tatum, who is free on $1,000 bond, is accused of shooting into a house on the David Barnett farm on Sept. 29.

Forrest Fenton Chandler received a 30- day suspended sentence on a non- support charge and placed on one-year probation on condition he pay Nancy Chandler $20 a week child support, obey the law and pay $19 court costs.

Charles Lee McKinley of Bertrand entered a plea of not guilty to a speeding charge and trial date was set for Nov. 7. He is free on his own recognizance.

Traffic violations brought the following fines: Floyd Cox of East Prairie, speeding, $29; James R. Whybark of Anniston, improper parking, blocking road, $26; Glen Alvin Perry Jr. of Charleston, speeding, $41; J. D. Bearden of Bertrand, speeding, $31; and Marjorie Kristen Erickson of Atlanta, Ga., speeding, $39.

In civil action, judgment of $479.24, plus court costs, was awarded Household Finance Corp. in their promissory note suit brought against Ernest R. and Ellen J. Culver of Charleston.

Judgment for possession of premises, damages of $500 and court costs were awarded Billy J. and Clara M. Humphreys in their unlawful detainer suit against Nora Mae Wilson.

Charges of burglary and larceny against Willie James "Bango" Evans of Charleston were continued to Oct. 17 and he remains in custody in lieu of $2,500 bond.

A felony charge of molesting a minor with immoral intent against Odell "Tadpole" Johnson was set for preliminary hearing on Nov. 14. The charge against Johnson, who is free on $2,500 bond, involves a 12-year- old and the incident reportedly occurred on Aug. 13

Other cases continued to Oct. 17 included: Henry Lynn of Wyatt, defective lights; James Earl McKenzie of Charleston, driving vehicle without an operator's license; and John Kim Stucker of Matthews, public intoxication and supplying liquor to a minor. Stucker is free on $250 bond.

Magistrate Court cases earlier this week were: James Greenlee, no operator's license, $21; Morris Lynn Rhea, speeding, $37; Roger Dale Hanner, speeding, $31; Chris Allen Vanpool, inadequate exhaust system, no tail pipe, $21; Richard Allen Pope, violation of operator's license, $26; Charles Joseph Jackson, speeding, $31.

Blue law repeal effort in trouble

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — Although state Rep. Phillip Scaglia, backed by businessmen in the state's two metropolitan areas, has continued his effort to repeal the Sunday blue law, it appears his efforts in court to have a referendum placed on the ballot may fall short.

Cole County Circuit Court Judge James T. Riley set a second hearing on the matter for Oct. 24, only 13 days before the election, after hearing legal arguments in the case Thursday.

Attorney Cleo Mueller, representing the Kansas City Democrat, told Riley that Secretary of State James C. Kirkpatrick had exceeded his authority in attempting to verify whether the more than 102,000 persons who signed petitions to place repeal of the law on the November ballot were actually registered voters.

Mueller claimed the secretary of state has only the authority to count signatures and determine that they are sufficient to place an issue on the ballot once the petitioners certify that the signatures are valid. Any determination of signature validity after that point rests with the courts, Mueller contended, citing court cases to back up his position.

While Asst. Atty. Gen. Paul Allred, representing Kirkpatrick, claimed court determination is needed only in cases of alleged fraud or forgery, he pointed out to Riley that even if the secretary of state were ordered to place the issue on the ballot, he is in no position to comply because election preparations have gone too far.

Absentee ballots had to be ready for distribution earlier this week by state law, Allred said, and next Tuesday is the final day for setting the voting machines.

But Mueller claimed the delay was caused by Kirkpatrick, whom he alleged had not officially notified Scaglia of the petition's rejection or the reasons for it, as required.

The case of the fowl sandwich

By: JACK STRAUSS, LL.B.

Lois looked good enough to eat and she nearly always did. A qualified candidate for All-American snacker, eating was her favorite pastime.

As she was munching away on a chicken sandwich in Benny's Beanery, however, she became convinced that she was eating her last snack. A chicken bone lodged in her throat and she figured she was a goner.

Upon recovering, she picked a different bone with Benny. She sued him for her injuries.

"It's certainly not my fault," was Benny's defense, "that chickens have chicken bones."

"When a chicken is in the barnyard," was Lois's answer, "it's one thing. But when it's between two slices of bread, it's another. An all- white chicken sandwich should be boneless. Consequently, Benny should be held liable for my injuries."

IF YOU WERE THE JUDGE, would you hold Benny liable for feeding Lois a fowl sandwich?

This is how the judge ruled: YES! The judge held that a restaurateur must exercise care to remove harmful bones as a customer would not ordinarily anticipate or guard against in food that is served. And, in this case, concluded the judge, ordinarily there are no bones in the white meat of a chicken.

Patrol investigates fewer personal injury mishaps

JEFFERSON CITY -- The highway patrol has investigated 1,275 fewer personal injury traffic accidents during the first eight months of this year than the same period in 1973, Col. Sam S. Smith, superintendent of the patrol, has announced.

"There were 7,478 injury producing traffic accidents investigated by our men during the first eight months of 1973 as compared to 6,023 from January through August of this year," he said.

This amounts to a 17 per cent reduction in injury accidents.

The number of persons injured totaled 13,039 in 1973, compared to 10,039 for this year - a 21 per cent reduction.

This reduction takes on even greater importance, Smith believes when one considers the physical suffering and economic loss usually associated with traffic accidents.

Smith believes this reduction is due primarily to the lower speed limits.

"The extra time taken to reach destinations when driving at slower speeds has paid big dividends," Smith said. "I would urge drivers to continue traveling at or below the speed limit so that there may be a further reduction in the injury and death toll."

As of midnight, Sept. 29, Missouri suffered 741 traffic fatalities compared with 1,068 for the same period in 1973.

In recognizance of this and in hopes of reducing fatalities even more, Gov. Christopher Bond has declared the period Oct. 1 through Dec. 31 as the "400 in '74 Campaign."

The idea behind the proclamation is to reduce the number of fatalities in Missouri by 400 from the number suffered in 1973.

The slogan is "designed to remind the general public that it is possible to reduce Missouri traffic fatalities by at least 400 in 1974," Gov. Bond said.

Schools and teachers do more than educate

By RICHARD B. GILES
Sikeston CTA President

During the past week, during a statewide observance of Missouri Educational Week, the employes of the Sikeston Public Schools have invested time and effort to bring to the citizens of their community what they feel are important educational features of the school system. Also, many facts have been presented to the public concerning the economic statistics which are a vital part of one of the largest enterprises in the area ... the Sikeston R-6 Public Schools. For example, the community has both read and heard that:

1. the school system employs over 500 people serving 4,900 students.

2. has a payroll approaching 3 and 1/2 million dollars ($3,500,000) each year, most of which is spent or invested back into the community.

3. transports 3,600 students daily using approximately 80,000 gallons of fuel each year.

4. serves approximately 4,000 meals daily with mostly locally purchased food.

However, these facts alone are not totally sufficient when one attempts to relate to others the value of public schools to a community. A teacher's contribution to a community does not stop with the performance of their classroom duties and extracurricular school activities. It was in regard to this topic that a survey was conducted among the 300 certificated staff members during the past week. The results of this survey disclosed the following information which should be of interest to the community:

During the past five years every teacher who has been employed at least one year has improved his educational status by attending in-service workshops in this or surrounding communities dealing with a variety of educational topics.

Also, more than one third of the staff members have earned additional college hours of credit at the graduate level at their own expense. Almost one of every six teachers employed has earned a masters' degree during this same period of time.

Teachers also take an interest in the total community in a variety of ways. An example would be the staff voluntary contribution to the community United Fund Drive. The response in the past years has been almost unanimous.

More than 50% of the staff respond to additional calls for educational services in the area churches. In addition to serving as church school teachers and choir members, there are teachers who have served as ministers, a chaplain and youth director.

One out of every five teachers belongs to a service club or fraternal organization. Two-thirds to one-half of these respective members have held a leadership role in these organizations during the past five years. The same one out of five ratio applies to those teachers who are involved in the scouting programs of the community.

Nearly one of every six teachers has donated his time to community programs or committees which include such examples as the Sheltered Workshop, Red Cross, Easter Seals, and the Child Development Center.

Additional areas of service in notable percentages were involvement in Little League, 4-H, and city government. Space would not permit the many remaining areas of service to the community which have the donated services of school personnel and/or the free use of school facilities.

Hopefully, this information will better reveal to the community that their schools not only provide one of the best educational facilities of the state, but that their teachers are also vitally and deeply involved in the total community they serve.

Senator turns down SeMo debate offer

CAPE GIRARDEAU — Citing "a previous commitment" as the reason, Sen. Thomas F. Eagleton declined the offer to debate made by the Southeast Missouri State University Political Science Club, while his Republican opponent, former Congressman Tom Curtin Tom Curtis, accepted the invitation extended by club president Mary Ellen Huck.

In a letter to Miss Huck, dated Sept. 30, Eagleton said, "Thank you for your letter and your kind invitation to participate in a debate on the Southeast Missouri campus.

"Unfortunately, I have a previous commitment on that day and will be unable to join you.

"Thank you again for your thoughtfulness in inviting me. I only wish circumstances were such that I could accept."

In a letter dated Sept. 27, Curtis had accepted all terms of the debate and had reserved the proposed date of Oct. 18.

The letter declining the offer is the only correspondence received by the Political Science Club from Eagleton. The letter made no indication of what the "previous commitment" concerned.

Plans are now being made to invite both candidates for the U.S. Senate seat to speak on campus in separate engagements.

Curtis has already agreed to an individual appearance. The club has not yet been in contact with the Eagleton office concerning the possibility of a separate speaking engagement.

Another Sikeston serviceman, Sgt. Harold Cooper, 21, whose parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Cooper, live at 219 William Street, was reported missing in action somewhere over Holland September 17 in a message received from the War Department Saturday.

A son was born to Lt. and Mrs. Paul David Allen on October 4 at St. Francis Hospital in Cape Girardeau. The child has been given the name of Paul David, jr., and is their first child.

Charles Walker, fast stepping fullback of the Sikeston High School Bulldogs, scored three touchdowns by dazzling running Friday at the local football field and Coach Lou Bona's stalwarts knocked over the Dexter Bearcats by a very convincing 19-0 score.

Samuel Henry Williams, 74, for 50 years a resident of this community, died at his home on Northwest street Monday and funeral services were conducted today.

R. Paul Buchmueller, Sikeston architect, has been appointed architect to design the new municipal swimming pool for East Prairie for which the voters recently passed a $40,000 bond issue.

Mr. and Mrs. John G. Russell will leave for Phoenix, Ariz., Monday, where they will spend the winter.

Fullback Bob Dyer of the Sikeston Bulldogs, moved into a third place tie for scoring honors this week as the result of his three counters last Friday against Kennett. Dyer was third high scorer in the Big Eight last season with 67 points.

Today in U. S. History

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Today is Friday, Oct. 11, the 284th day of 1974. There are 81 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1811, the first steam ferry was put into operation by inventor John Stevens, between New York City and Hoboken, N. J.

On this date—

In 1776, during the Revolutionary War, Colonial forces under Benedict Arnold were defeated by the British on Lake Champlain.

In 1945, Chiang Kai-shek and Mao Tse-tung issued a joint statement pledging to work for peace and unity in China.

In 1962, Pope John the 23rd opened the Roman Catholic Church's second Vatican Council.

In 1970, there was widespread flooding in Puerto Rico after torrential rains.

Ten years ago: The State Department announced that an East German nuclear physicist, Heinz Barwich, had defected and been granted asylum in the United States.

One year ago: President Nixon was seeking the advice of congressmen and party leader before naming a successor to Spiro Agnew as Vice President.

Thought for today: Keep quiet, and people will think you are a philosopher — Latin proverb.

How does a kid crippled with Cerebral Palsy become a successful lawyer?

With guts...

And a lot of help from United Cerebral Palsy. Leonard Eaton, now an attorney for the Housing and Urban Development Administration, still has only partial use of one hand and gets around with crutches

But he made it.

And United Cerebral Palsy can help lots of other kids make it, too, with physical therapy, medical treatment, counseling and other needed services.

But only as long as you're there to help.

Law officers devise communication plan

BERNIE — "We need to devise a plan for better communication between area law enforcement agencies, Stoddard County Sheriff Ralph Mouser told a group of law enforcement officers at the Southeast Missouri Law Enforcement Officers meeting Thursday night at the Tomahawk restaurant.

Most of the law enforcement officers in attendance agreed with Mouser and worked out a plan in which each county sheriff and city department heads would meet once a month to talk over problems and exchange information. The sheriff of each county will then compose a list of stolen items, outstanding warrants and other useful information pertaining to his county. The list will then be sent to a central coordinator who will get the information out to the other counties.

Another suggestion was to form a major case squad in Southeast Missouri to try to solve some of the more difficult cases.

Guest speaker was Paul McGhee, a Dexter attorney and former Stoddard County Prosecuting Attorney. McGhee spoke of the importance of making a will and the proper handling of an estate. He said that anyone owning property should give careful thought to the proper handling of his estate in case of death. He said one of the things to consider would be putting property in both the husband and wife's name, so that in case of death of either spouse the property would go to the remaining survivor without having to go to Probate Court. He said this applies to an estate under $150,000, but for estates totaling more than that, additional legal advice would be necessary.

He further stated that couples with no children should not automatically assume that the property will go to the surviving spouse. He said without a will a parent, brother or sister could claim half the property. He also said he would discourage the practice of bypassing the spouse and leaving property to minor children. He said this would involve the appointing of a guardian and other settlement problems. He also advised that an estate should be handled in such a way as to not go through probate court if possible. He said a will is always desirable and the total cost of drawing up a will in Stoddard county averages only $37.50.

The next regular meeting set for January will be hosted by the Mississippi County Sheriff's department, and will be held in Charleston. New officers will be elected at that meeting.

blood. They didn't know what to say about that, so they didn't say anything."

The defense attorneys presented Dr. Chester Quarles of Oxford, Miss., head of the criminology department at the University of Mississippi in Oxford and had on hand a Memphis homicide captain, T. H. Smith, to testify.

Because the hearing was closed to the press, little is known about what transpired in the hearing.

However, a source close to the hearing reported that all Missouri had to base the charge against Dr. Garrison on was the fingerprint which reportedly was lifted by a Missouri highway patrolman alone on the afternoon of the murder. Reportedly no one witnessed the trooper's actual lifting of the print.

Dr. Quarles told The Daily Standard "the Missouri officials conducted a sloppy investigation."

No transcript of the hearing was kept, although attorneys for both sides and the hearing commissioner, Williams, kept notes on the testimony.

The governor's decision on whether to grant extradition could take a week or longer, an informed source said.

After the hearing, Dr. Quarles and Capt. Smith told a Daily Standard reporter that the method of operation of the murder led them to think that it could have been committed by a burglar or burglars.

They also said they think Missouri authorities jumped the gun in filing murder charges at 3 p.m. on the day of the death.

$13,500 grant awarded airport

DEXTER — It was announced Wednesday by Sen. Thomas Eagleton and Stuart Symington and Rep. Bill Burlison that an airport planning grant in the amount of $13,500 has been awarded to Dexter Municipal Airport.

The grant is the federal government's share of a project to develop a master plan for the municipal airport. The federal government shoulders four-sixths of the cost.

The city pays one-sixth ($3,375), as does the state.

The airport master plan will provide a guideline for development of the airport. It will include studies of the growth potential and needs of Dexter and the area.

Based on the master plan, the airport board can move ahead in making improvements and considering expansion at the airport.

The master plan was a necessity for the airport board to obtain federal grants for improvements at the airport. The Federal Aviation Administration requires a city to have such a master plan before it will approve further federal matching grants.

The Dexter Airport Board plans to begin a runway improvement project of almost $600,000 once the master plan is complete. The municipal airport has two runways.

The city's share of the major improvement and paving for the master plan will be paid out of profits from a city-owned farm operated by the airport board. The farm surrounds the airport and is share-cropped.

"We get no city monies at all," Dr. Robert Boon of the Airport Board said. The 600 acres of crops provide most of the profit for the airport operation.

The master plan is an extremely long-range concept. "Supposedly, when they (the engineers) get through, we'll have a plan for the next 20-25 years," Willard Brown, chairman of the airport board, said.

The Sikeston engineering firm of Buchmueller, Whitworth and Foust, Inc. has been contracted to develop the master plan.

Charleston man gets prison term

CHARLESTON — Willie Dale McMillen of Charleston was sentenced to four years in custody of the State Department of Corrections Wednesday by Circuit Judge Marshall Craig on a burglary charge and four years on a stealing charge with sentences to run concurrently.

The charges against McMillen were in connection with the April 20 breakin at a barn owned by W. S. Babb of Charleston and the theft of a five-gallon can of Cobex. Probation was denied McMillen and he was given credit for 128 days served in the county jail.

Dissolutions of marriage were granted Willis M. Ciscell and Pauline Ciscell, with her maiden name of Bailey being restored; Vera Harvey and George Harvey; and Wanda Johnson and Leroy Johnson. Mrs. Johnson was given custody of three children and $30 per month child support. Johnson was granted visitation rights.

A damage suit brought by Gilbert James against Ray Northern and Marshall Dean was transferred to Scott County.

Board hears report on new program

CHARLESTON — The R-I Board of Education Thursday afternoon heard a report from Mike Back, administrative assistant, on the new distributive education program, which was initiated this school year.

The program, designed to assist students who plan to go into business or sales related fields and do not plan to attend college, has 41 seniors and 44 juniors enrolled at this time. Members of the senior class attend one class period in the morning and arrangements have been made with local businesses to have them work there in the afternoon.

Some students work from 12:30 to 3 p.m. each afternoon and others are employed after school hours. Members of the junior class have only classroom or textbook type activities, according to Back. The class is not limited to only students who do not plan to attend college.

The board voted to take bids on eight new buses for the next school year. These will be accepted at the November meeting.

Student handbooks from junior and senior high school were approved by the board.

A report on the perspective learning test results was heard from Bob Graham, Hearnes Elementary School principal.

The board adopted an amendment to board policies concerning substitute teachers. Under the amendment, non-degree teachers shall be paid $20 per day and degree teachers will receive $25 per day. A degree teacher doing substitute work for one teacher for 20 consecutive days or more shall be paid according to the salary schedule.

According to the Clean Water Commission, sewage treatment at the truck stop is through a modified activated sludge type of plant which aeriates the waste material to neutralize bacteria, then discharges a moderate amount of water that is considered non-polluting. The darkened, partially solid runoff material indicated that a mechanical breakdown may have occurred in the sewage plant. This treatment system requires operating permits both from the Clean Water Commission and the Environmental Protection Agency.

Copeland told the Standard today that the problem is expected to be cleared up early next week.

OUTSTANDING SERIES

'COLUMBO' ON 'NBC SUNDAY MYSTERY MOVIE' Sundays, NBC Television Network. (In Color, 7:30 p.m., CDT)

This triple Emmy Award-winning element of "NBC Sunday Mystery Movie," honored this year by the Television Academy as Outstanding Limited Series, returns for its fourth season on NBC-TV.

The upcoming season promises a continuation of the use of location filming at palatial estates where Columbo stalks his affluent suspects who have committed ingenious misdeeds. Looking disheveled, his stogie in hand, the self- effacing sleuth tenaciously pursues his suspect by first lulling him into a false sense of security and then moving in to capture his quarry in a moment of weakness.

Richard Levinson and William Link are the creators of "Columbo" and they modeled their hero after the detective Petrovitch in "Crime and Punishment."

Roland Kibbee and Dean Hargrove are the executive producers with Peter S. Fischer as the executive story consultant. Edward K. Dodds returns as associate producer.

"Columbo" is produced on location in Los Angeles and at Universal Studios in association with NBC-TV.

EMERGENCY RETURNS FOR ITS 3RD YEAR ON NBC TELEVISION

Saturda, NBC Television Network (In Color, 7-8 p.m. CDT)

The working relationship between Los Angeles County Fire Department paramedics and the medical personnel of a major hospital in Los Angeles County forms the theme of "Emergency!", a one-hour dramatic series, which returns to the NBC Television Network in September for its third season.

The increasingly popular series, based on experiences and procedures of the personnel in the Los Angeles Fire Department rescue unit and the County Hospital emergency wing, premiered in January, 1972.

"Emergency!" stars Robert Fuller, Julie London, Bobby Troup, Randolph Mantooth and Kevin Tighe. Fuller portrays Dr. Kelly Brackett, chief doctor of the Emergency Division of the fictitious Rampart Hospital in Los Angeles County. Miss London plays Dixie McCall, Rampart Emergency's head nurse. Troup has the role of Dr. Joe Early, a neurosurgeon in private practice, who volunteers his services frequently to Rampart.

The paramedics are played by Mantooth (as John Gage) and Tighe (as Roy DeSoto). They show the work of the paramedics in Los Angeles County Fire Department's innovative Paramedic Unit, an organization now being duplicated across the nation.

"Emergency!" is produced on location in and around Los Angeles and at Universal Studios by Jack Webb's Mark VII Productions, in association with the NBC Television Network. Robert A. Cinader is the executive producer and Ed Self is the producer.

'TIME TORUN'

Time to Run," a new film that is a mixture of problems and solutions. This is a full-length feature, filmed in Eastmancolor by World Wide Pictures.

Filmed on location in the Southern California area, "Time to Run" stars Ed Nelson, Randall Carver, Barbara Sigel, Joan Winmill and Gordon Rigsby. Ed Nelson is perhaps best known for his portrayal of Dr. Rossi on TV's "Peyton Place." In "Time To Run" Nelson plays Warren Cole, a hard driving success-oriented industrial and scientfiic engineer who, because of over-involvement with his work, has failed to communicate with his wife, Fran, played by Joan Winmill, or their son Jeff, played by screen newcomer Randall Carver.

The film allows the viewer to become involved on any one or more of three different levels. Viewed purely as entertainment, it's the suspenseful story of Jeff's attempts at sabotage in the nuclear generating plant, conceived, designed and managed by his father. Jeff strongly feels that the plant is a threat to the environment and he puts his feelings in action.

Viewed on and emotional level, it is the deeply moving drama of the conflicts that are tearing a family apart—conflicts that develop between husband and wife and between father and son. In an attempt to find freedom from the ever-growing hostilties, Jeff takes to the road, hoping to discover some meaning in his confused life.

Approached from a religious perspective, there also is a story of friction between Jeff and his girlfriend Michelle, played by Barbara Sigel, who is a familiar face to tv viewers. Michelle has discovered a spiritual dimension in her life and this aspect is confusing to Jeff, who has little time for a God who would allow war, hatred, and suffering on earth." But his life is shattered by an avalanche of personal problems, and he finds himself at a Jesus people gathering with Michelle, where he glimpses the possibility of new life-style based on love and understanding.

Regardless of what the viewer draws from the film, the story can help strengthen love relationships between people. It's a film that we made for families to attend—together.

Jeff Cole, who portrays Randall Carver, a college dropout, attended Missouri Military Aademy, Mexico, Mo. In the film "Time To Run," he keeps on the move during his desperate search for a meaning to life. The picture deals with the problems facing a young man, his girl and a family ready to fall apart. It has been endorsed by Billy Graham.

FLIP WILSON'S 1ST TV SPECIAL

Internationally acclaimed comedian - actor Peter Sellers has been signed to make a guest appearance on the NBC Television Network's first Flip Wilson special: "Flip Wilson ... Of Course," to be colorcast Friday, Oct. 18 (7:30- 8:30 p.m. CDT).

Sellers, an infrequent television guest, has concentrated on feature films in recent years, in a variety of roles ranging from the inept Inspector Clouseau in "A Shot in the Dark" to a student of hippiedom in "I Love You, Alice B. Toklas."

Sellers first came into prominence with U. S. audiences in the British film comedy "The Mouse That Roared," although he had been a comedy luminary in Britain since World War II. A member of the BBC series, "The Goon Show," in the late '40s, he began making feature films in 1950. The zany skills which enable Sellers to play two or three roles in the same films are augmented by dramatic talent for non-comedy roles, such as those he played in "The Dock Brief" and "Never Let Go."
